THE COUNTY CONVENTION A BUSINESS-LIKE BODY

McKinley Administration, Gov. Nash, Senators Hanna and Foraker and Hon. R. W. Tayler Praised In Resolutions.

NEW RULES FOR REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

A Code Proposed by Judge Smith With the Object of Removing Several Grounds of Complaint—Columbiana County Delegations Instructed For Cameron For Treasurer, Harter For Judge, Archer and Connell For Senators.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lisbon, March 26.—The Republican county convention met at about 10 o'clock this morning and held a well-attended and business-like session. Judge J. G. Moore was made chairman and Ed A. King secretary.

Chairman I. B. Cameron introduced resolutions which were enthusiastically and unanimously adopted. These spoke in unstinted praise of the wise and patriotic administration of President McKinley; commended the course in congress of Senators Foraker and Hanna and Representative R. W. Tayler in the strongest terms and also the administration of Governor Nash and the other state officers. Mr. Tayler, who was present, offered an amendment commanding the administration of Hon. I. B. Cameron as state treasurer and instructing the Columbiana county delegation to support him as a candidate for that office for another term. The resolution was approved unanimously.

J. A. Martin offered a resolution indorsing Henry W. Harter, of Canton, as a candidate for common pleas judge in this district and instructing the Columbiana county delegates to vote for him in convention.

This resolution having passed, L. P. Farr offered another, indorsing the candidacy of C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, who received a unanimous vote at the primaries, for state senator. The 103 delegates of this county were instructed to support Mr. Connell at the coming senatorial convention at Steubenville. The resolution was approved, after being so amended as to give the delegation power to fill all vacancies in its membership.

State Treasurer Cameron moved that all candidates having no opposition at the primaries be given a full vote. Carried.

C. C. Connell offered a resolution strongly praising the course pursued by State Senator Archer, of this district, and Representative Samuel Buell in the legislature and pledging them the county's support next fall. Both resolutions were unanimously approved.

A committee of three was then appointed to select delegates to the coming state convention. It consists of J. N. Hanley, of East Liverpool; R. N. Chamberlain, of East Palestine, and J. A. Martin, of Lisbon.

Judge P. M. Smith next took up the important matter of a change in the rules governing county primaries. In a vigorous speech he pointed out the various reasons why changes in the rules were needed. He offered a new code of rules and made a strong speech in favor of their adoption. Judge Smith cited the fact that his home town of Wellsville had suffered much through the action of the central committeemen there. He said the fact that there was a Democratic mayor of Wellsville at the present time was the fault of disgruntled committeemen in the Republican party. The changes proposed by Judge Smith include these, among others:

The county primaries in the different precincts shall be conducted by the central committeeman for that precinct. In case of a vacancy the candidates shall select the man to serve. This, it is believed, will be the fairest method and most satisfactory to all interested.

No candidate shall be permitted to serve as an election officer at the primaries. Representatives of each candidate on the ticket shall be allowed to select a watcher to witness both balloting and the counting.

Another regulation is that any candidate who is dissatisfied after the primaries shall make his complaint to the chairman, secretary and treasurer of the county committee within five days after the primaries. If these officers consider the complaint reasonable and well founded the committee is empowered to call a meeting to consider it.

The matter presented in the form of a resolution by Judge Smith was left, on his motion, to the consideration of a committee of five to make its recommendations to the county committee at its meeting this afternoon. Appointed on this special committee were P. M. Smith, J. H. Brookes, L. P. Farr, Ed A. King and J. Frank Adams.

NEW FACTORY TO MANUFACTURE THEM ASSURED.

A site has been secured at the foot of Franklin street on the property where the house which was recently occupied by the Lichenstein family and which was destroyed by fire, stood. When seen in regard to the matter this morning Mr. Scott said:

"Yes, it is true that Mr. Louthan and myself intend to erect a supply works on Franklin street. The plant will be 130x60 feet and will be of the most modern improvement. The plans for the building are now being prepared, and we expect to commence the foundation in a few days. I was out of the city this morning looking at a boiler and engine.

"The machinery to be used in the factory will be made in this city, and will be in readiness to be placed in position as soon as the building is completed. We expect to have the plant in operation in a very short time, and the story published in a local paper a short time ago in regard to the plant was untrue."

Green Goods Men Flooding the City With Their Circulars to Catch Suckers.

BAIT LAID TO TRAP THE FOOLISH

Eastern Swindlers Seem to Think East Liverpool People Do Not Read the Papers or Understand Their Plan of Operations.

A number of residents of the city have in the last few weeks received letters from green goods men who offer them very heavy inducements to purchase spurious money.

The green goods men claim to have secured a plate from the mint at Philadelphia and to be now turning out imitation money which cannot be detected from the real stuff. Newspaper clippings calling attention to the fact that the mint had lost the plate, giving a glaring account of the secret service men on the trail and telling what the government may lose by the transaction are enclosed in the letter.

For the small sum of $1 the green goods men offer to send $500 worth of the stuff to any person in the United States.

A number of the people who received letters here turned them over to Postmaster Surles, who consigned them to the waste basket, as the department is overrun with letters of this kind.

There may be a few people in this city who will be caught by the offer, but they will be few and far apart.

It is the same old game. The clippings are bogus, merely photographic reproductions of matter which was put into type but never appeared in any newspaper. The greenhorn who is so foolish as to deal with the sharpers will of course lose his good money, getting either sawdust or waste paper in return for it. The "green goods" men have no green goods to deal in. They fool themselves if they think East Liverpool don't read the papers and understand their game.

BIG COMBINE.

Merchant Blast Furnaces to Be Merged in One Huge Corporation.

Sharon, Pa., March 26.—It is definitely settled that all merchant blast furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys and several in the Cleveland and Pittsburgh districts will be merged into one corporation with a capital of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. The combined weekly output of the plants optioned is over 50,000 tons. It is to be a combination of the blast furnaces making what is classed as merchant iron, as distinguished from the furnaces that make pig iron for the steel mills, which contract for their entire output from year to year.

So far about one-half of the furnaces that are to be included in the new combination are under option.

TO SPEND $500,000.

Big Hard Rubber Plant to Be Built at Akron.

Akron, March 26.—Local and eastern capital are interested in the People's Hard Rubber company, incorporated at Columbus for $200,000 yesterday. This capitalization is nominal. About $50,000 is to be spent on a large rubber plant in Akron.

There are now no hard rubber companies outside of the American Hard Rubber company. Musser & Kohler, local attorneys, filed the papers, but the names of those back of the project are not announced.

Peddler's Pack Stolen.

Salem, March 26.—Oar Kline, an itinerant Hebrew peddler who put up in this city over Sunday, was robbed of two packs, which, he says, contained in the aggregate about $65 worth of the goods he handles. The case was reported to the police.

State Treasurer Cameron moved that all candidates having no opposition at the primaries be given a full vote. Carried.

C. C. Connell offered a resolution strongly praising the course pursued by State Senator Archer, of this district, and Representative Samuel Buell in the legislature and pledging them the county's support next fall. Both resolutions were unanimously approved.

A committee of three was then appointed to select delegates to the coming state convention. It consists of J. N. Hanley, of East Liverpool; R. N. Chamberlain, of East Palestine, and J. A. Martin, of Lisbon.

Judge P. M. Smith next took up the important matter of a change in the rules governing county primaries. In a vigorous speech he pointed out the various reasons why changes in the rules were needed. He offered a new code of rules and made a strong speech in favor of their adoption. Judge Smith cited the fact that his home town of Wellsville had suffered much through the action of the central committeemen there. He said the fact that there was a Democratic mayor of Wellsville at the present time was the fault of disgruntled committeemen in the Republican party. The changes proposed by Judge Smith include these, among others:

The county primaries in the different precincts shall be conducted by the central committeeman for that precinct. In case of a vacancy the candidates shall select the man to serve. This, it is believed, will be the fairest method and most satisfactory to all interested.

No candidate shall be permitted to serve as an election officer at the primaries. Representatives of each candidate on the ticket shall be allowed to select a watcher to witness both balloting and the counting.

Another regulation is that any candidate who is dissatisfied after the primaries shall make his complaint to the chairman, secretary and treasurer of the county committee within five days after the primaries. If these officers consider the complaint reasonable and well founded the committee is empowered to call a meeting to consider it.

The matter presented in the form of a resolution by Judge Smith was left, on his motion, to the consideration of a committee of five to make its recommendations to the county committee at its meeting this afternoon. Appointed on this special committee were P. M. Smith, J. H. Brookes, L. P. Farr, Ed A. King and J. Frank Adams.

Hodson building, at the corner of Fifth and Broadway, and were on a scaffold about 10 feet from the ground when it broke, allowing them to fall to the pavement below.

In falling Edwards struck his head, cutting a small gash, while Wood had his right shoulder and leg slightly injured. Both gentlemen received a shaking up.

DISTINGUISHED MAN IN JAIL

Served During the Rebellion As a Spy
in the Confederate Army And Lost
an Eye in the War—Coates Sold
His Valuable Silk Hat.

Dave Farrell will get a trip to the Canton workhouse and it will be several months before he again bothers the police force of this city. Farrell has been in jail on numerous accusations and seems to have a mania for getting drunk. He was released from the city jail yesterday afternoon and last night was found lying in a cellarway at the foot of Broadway. Officer Aufderheide placed him under arrest and Mayor Davidson fined him $34.60 this morning.

Prof. L. C. Slater, of West Virginia, was arrested by Officer Gill. Slater is a veteran of the rebellion and served as a Confederate spy, having one eye shot out. He had a recommendation from parties in Barnesville and said he was a vocalist and reader of no mean ability. The mayor had him recite a poem and then gave him an hour to get out of town.

T. J. Cherry was an ordinary drunk and Officers Mahoney and Dawson placed him under arrest. He was given $5.60.

George W. Braden was arrested by Officer Dawson and a charge of vagrancy placed against him. Braden was asleep on the sidewalk on Market street. He wants to go to the infirmary, but the mayor may give him a chance to go to the works.

William Dray, of Jethro, was drunk last night and Officer Morris arrested him. He will be given a hearing to-night.

When Thomas Coates, of Allegheny, arrived in this city he wore a plug hat and was on top of the heap. Officer Davidson found him drunk last night and took him to the city hall. His plug hat was gone and he was the proud possessor of a cheap one. Coates says he sold his plug hat. Mayor Davidson will give him a hearing this afternoon.

Pat Mooney was taken to the works this morning, and will spend some time at that institution.

RUSSIAN PLOTS

NOW DETERMINED TO HAVE THE LIFE OF THE CZAR.

The Latest Discovery Is That Mines Have Been Laid Beneath the Palace.

St. Petersburg, March 26.—(Special)—All sorts of reports today are current concerning plots against the imperial family and other high officials. The latest, based apparently on reliable information, is that mines have been discovered beneath the czar's palace at Tzarskoye Selo.

Prominent Russians are accused and sensational arrests are likely at any time. Already there are numerous suspects under arrest or surveillance for alleged connection with other recent plots.

HOT ON THE TRAIL.

WHOLE COUNTY AROUSED BY SOMERSET ROBBERY.

Believed That the Robbers of the Perry County Bank Cannot Escape.

Somerset, O., March 26.—(Special)—The bandits who partially wrecked the State bank of Somerset early this morning were seven instead of six in number. They escaped with but $500 in cash, overlooking bonds and securities amounting to $30,000.

There have been no arrests as yet, but the whole country is aroused and it is believed the robbers cannot escape capture.

POTTERY SUPPLIES.

NEW FACTORY TO MANUFACTURE THEM ASSURED.

Edward Scott Says the Establishment Will Soon Be in Operation.

Before many weeks pass East Liverpool will have another factory added to its already long list. B. M. Louthan and Edward Scott being the gentlemen who will erect a pottery supply works in this city.

A site has been secured at the foot of Franklin street on the property where the house which was recently occupied by the Lichenstein family and which was destroyed by fire, stood. When seen in regard to the matter this morning Mr. Scott said:

"Yes, it is true that Mr. Louthan and myself intend to erect a supply works on Franklin street. The plant will be 130x60 feet and will be of the most modern improvement. The plans for the building are now being prepared, and we expect to commence the foundation in a few days. I was out of the city this morning looking at a boiler and engine.

"The machinery to be used in the factory will be made in this city, and will be in readiness to be placed in position as soon as the building is completed. We expect to have the plant in operation in a very short time, and the story published in a local paper a short time ago in regard to the plant was untrue."

The wreck train was called from Wellsville yesterday afternoon and the car was soon placed on the rails.

WRECK TRAIN CALLED.

To Repair the Mischief Done By Small Boys.

When the shifter went to the Horn switch yesterday morning for the purpose of placing on the track the two cars which were derailed by a number of small boys, who loosened the brakes, it was discovered that the entire car was off, and it would be impossible for them to replace it.

Green Goods Men Flooding the City With Their Circulars to Catch Suckers.

BAIT LAID TO TRAP THE FOOLISH

Eastern Swindlers Seem to Think East Liverpool People Do Not Read the Papers or Understand Their Plan of Operations.

A number of residents of the city have in the last few weeks received letters from green goods men who offer them very heavy inducements to purchase spurious money.

The green goods men claim to have secured a plate from the mint at Philadelphia and to be now turning out imitation money which cannot be detected from the real stuff. Newspaper clippings calling attention to the fact that the mint had lost the plate, giving a glaring account of the secret service men on the trail and telling what the government may lose by the transaction are enclosed in the letter.

For the small sum of $1 the green goods men offer to send $500 worth of the stuff to any person in the United States.

A number of the people who received letters here turned them over to Postmaster Surles, who consigned them to the waste basket, as the department is overrun with letters of this kind.

There may be a few people in this city who will be caught by the offer, but they will be few and far apart.

It is the same old game. The clippings are bogus, merely photographic reproductions of matter which was put into type but never appeared in any newspaper. The greenhorn who is so foolish as to deal with the sharpers will of course lose his good money, getting either sawdust or waste paper in return for it. The "green goods" men have no green goods to deal in. They fool themselves if they think East Liverpool don't read the papers and understand their game.

BIG COMBINE.

Merchant Blast Furnaces to Be Merged in One Huge Corporation.

Sharon, Pa., March 26.—It is definitely settled that all merchant blast furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys and several in the Cleveland and Pittsburg districts will be merged into one corporation with a capital of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. The combined weekly output of the plants optioned is over 50,000 tons. It is to be a combination of the blast furnaces making what is classed as merchant iron, as distinguished from the furnaces that make pig iron for the steel mills, which contract for their entire output from year to year.

So far about one-half of the furnaces that are to be included in the new combination are under option.

TO SPEND $500,000.

Big Hard Rubber Plant to Be Built at Akron.

Akron, March 26.—Local and eastern capital are interested in the People's Hard Rubber company, incorporated at Columbus for $200,000 yesterday. This capitalization is nominal. About $500,000 is to be spent on a large rubber plant in Akron.

There are now no hard rubber companies outside of the American Hard Rubber company. Musser & Kohler, local attorneys, filed the papers, but the names of those back of the project are not announced.

Peddler's Pack Stolen.

Salem, March 26.—Oar Kline, an itinerant Hebrew peddler who put up in this city over Sunday, was robbed of two packs, which, he says, contained in the aggregate about $65 worth of the goods he handles. The case was reported to the police.

EAST END.

SMITH IN TROUBLE.

A Smith's Ferry Man Makes Trouble in a Pottery And is Warned Out of Town.

James Smith, of Smith's Ferry, is in trouble again. He has become a genuine nuisance about both the East End and in the city proper, and the police have grown tired of him. From present indications it seems highly probable that he will find his way into the city prison at his next visit to this city.

Yesterday Jim entered an East End pottery and indulged in some ungentlemanly talk to one of the ladies. One of the men invited him to leave the shop and when he refused to go assisted him out in a somewhat ungentle manner. The pottery worker alleged that Smith called him bad names and says he cannot stand it to be insulted by such a man. Smith came to the East End fire station and wanted the man arrested.

Officer Terrence questioned him and Smith admitted that he had called the other man bad names, too; and as he was guilty of trespassing, Mr. Terrence advised him to leave the town at once. Smith did not seem disposed to take his advice until it became apparent that he might be wanted at police headquarters, when he left in a hurry.

The pottery officials are likely to have Smith landed in jail the next time he visits here.

SEVERELY SHOCKED.

Martin Elliott Found Out What Was the Matter With the Telephone Wires.

The electric light wire near Arnold's corner fell across a Columbian telephone wire last night and charged several phones near there.

The telephone in Martin Elliott's shop began to whirr in a very unusual manner. Mr. Elliott started to call up central to learn what was the matter. He took down the receiver and had it just about to his ear when he received a shock that almost stunned him. It seems that he had placed his right hand on the bell to stop the noise. He found out what was the matter without calling central.

After Mr. Elliott recovered from his tingling experience he went to another 'phone and notified the company. The wires were disconnected a few minutes later.

EAST END GOSSIP.

John Smith has returned from St. Louis, where he assisted in the organization of a Masonic lodge.

Raising the Fee.

In that particular year it happened that the national political convention of which we are speaking was held in some other town than Chicago, and the place was crowded.

This is how it came to pass that Colonel Hankthunder, who went merely as a prominent citizen of the republic and had not taken the precaution to engage a room beforehand, found himself shut out of the hotels and compelled to choose lodgings from a list of eligible private dwellings.

The woman of the house near the corner of Fish street and Potato avenue, the first residence at which he called, showed him the only room she had to spare.

"That suits me, ma'am," he said. "How much will it cost me for board and lodging here for the next four days?"

"Well," she answered, "this is not a regular boarding house, and I am only taking boarders because I want to educate my boy for a lawyer. I shall have to charge you $6 for the four days."

"Madam," loftily rejoined the colonel, taking out his pocketbook, "you will never educate your boy for a lawyer by giving such an example as that. I will pay you $10."—Chicago Tribune.

The following tow-boats passed this city yesterday and today: Down—John Moren, Wilmot. Up—Enterprise, Dick Fulton, Clifton and Mariner.

LANDMARK COINC.

The Old McGinley Homestead to Be Replaced By a Big Modern Dwelling.

Dr. C. B. Ogden is having plans drawn for a 16-room brick dwelling for two families to be erected on his lot at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets. W. A. Calhoun is the architect.

The old house, still standing on the lot, is known as the Patrick McGinley homestead, and is one of the oldest houses on the hill. It has been unoccupied for about a year and has served mainly as a place for posting bills. The old house has long been considered an eyesore by the neighbors, who will not be disappointed to see the ancient landmark disappear.

PLAQUE OF DEVILFISH.

English Channel Invaded by Hordes of Octopi.

A plague as horrid in its way as any of those from which the ancient Egyptians suffered has assailed the south coast of England.

Countless hordes of octopi—the devillfishes of Victor Hugo—have invaded the English channel and have swarmed along the shores of Devon and Cornwall in tremendous numbers. Traveling about in marauding armies, they have well nigh destroyed the local lobster and crab fisheries by devouring these crustaceans wholesale.

On the French side of the strait, especially in the department of Finistere, they are thrown up on the beaches by the sea after storms in such quantities that their loathsome bodies have been gathered up and removed by hundreds of cartloads to prevent them from endangering the public health by rotting.

Many of these creatures have a spread of six feet or more, the tentacles being three feet in length and covered with suckers as big as 50 cent pieces. But specimens have been seen very much greater in size, and individuals are known sometimes to attain a measurement of 16 feet from arm tip to arm tip. That the larger ones will readily attack human beings is well known, the sucking disks with which the arms are provided holding the victim with an irresistible force. Once fairly embraced by the animal there is small chance for the strongest man, unless he is lucky enough to have a big knife or a spear.

The most surprising point about the plague referred to is that the octopus has rarely been seen hitherto in British waters—so rarely, indeed, that during many years past specimens could be obtained for aquaria in England only at long intervals, and half a sovereign was frequently paid for a small one alive. It is very numerous in the Mediterranean and ranges as far north as the south side of the English channel, which is its extreme limit ordinarily.

SICK MAN GROWS FOUR INCHES.

Robert King of Islip, N. Y., bids fair to be the tallest man in Suffolk. During the past few weeks he has grown four inches, and his height is now the talk of the town. King, who is 19 years of age, was taken ill with a fever some weeks ago. Before being taken ill he measured 5 feet 10 inches, and his present height is 6 feet 2 inches. His increased length was noticed when it was discovered that the bed was not long enough to allow him to lie stretched at full length. He was accordingly measured, and to the surprise of those who had been at his bedside during his illness it was found he had grown. It is supposed that the growth is due to the muscles relaxing. Unless the muscles contract upon his recovery he will be obliged to have a bedstead made to order.

Heat of the Stars.

Experiments at the Yerkes observatory have led to certain results on the heat of the stars that may be summarized as follows: The apparatus employed was sensitive enough to register the heat received from a candle 15 miles distant. The heat received from Arcturus was equivalent to the heat received from a candle at a distance of about six miles.

SMITH IN TROUBLE.

A Smith's Ferry Man Makes Trouble in a Pottery And is Warned Out of Town.

James Smith, of Smith's Ferry, is in trouble again. He has become a genuine nuisance about both the East End and in the city proper, and the police have grown tired of him. From present indications it seems highly probable that he will find his way into the city prison at his next visit to this city.

Yesterday Jim entered an East End pottery and indulged in some ungentlemanly talk to one of the ladies. One of the men invited him to leave the shop and when he refused to go assisted him out in a somewhat ungentle manner. The pottery worker alleged that Smith called him bad names and says he cannot stand it to be insulted by such a man. Smith came to the East End fire station and wanted the man arrested.

Officer Terrence questioned him and Smith admitted that he had called the other man bad names, too; and as he was guilty of trespassing Mr. Terrence advised him to leave the town at once. Smith did not seem disposed to take his advice until it became apparent that he might be wanted at police headquarters, when he left in a hurry.

The pottery officials are likely to have Smith landed in jail the next time he visits here.

SEVERELY SHOCKED.

Martin Elliott Found Out What Was the Matter With the Telephone Wires.

The electric light wire near Arnold's corner fell across a Columbian telephone wire last night and charged several 'phones near there.

The telephone in Martin Elliott's shop began to whirr in a very unusual manner. Mr. Elliott started to call up central to learn what was the matter. He took down the receiver and had it just about to his ear when he received a shock that almost stunned him. It seems that he had placed his right hand on the bell to stop the noise. He found out what was the matter without calling central.

After Mr. Elliott recovered from his tingling experience he went to another 'phone and notified the company. The wires were disconnected a few minutes later.

Raising the Fee.

In that particular year it happened that the national political convention of which we are speaking was held in some other town than Chicago, and the place was crowded.

This is how it came to pass that Colonel Hankthunder, who went merely as a prominent citizen of the republic and had not taken the precaution to engage a room beforehand, found himself shut out of the hotels and compelled to choose lodgings from a list of eligible private dwellings.

The woman of the house near the corner of Fish street and Potato avenue, the first residence at which he called, showed him the only room she had to spare.

"That suits me, ma'am," he said. "How much will it cost me for board and lodging here for the next four days?"

"Well," she answered, "this is not a regular boarding house, and I am only taking boarders because I want to educate my boy for a lawyer. I shall have to charge you $6 for the four days."

"Madam," loftily rejoined the colonel, taking out his pocketbook, "you will never educate your boy for a lawyer by giving such an example as that. I will pay you $10."—Chicago Tribune.

The following tow-boats passed this city yesterday and today: Down—John Moren, Wilmot. Up—Enterprise, Dick Fulton, Clifton and Mariner.

LANDMARK GOING.

The Old McGinley Homestead to Be Replaced By a Big Modern Dwelling.

Dr. C. B. Ogden is having plans drawn for a 16-room brick dwelling for two families to be erected on his lot at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets. W. A. Calhoun is the architect.

The old house, still standing on the lot, is known as the Patrick McGinley homestead, and is one of the oldest houses on the hill. It has been unoccupied for about a year and has served mainly as a place for posting bills. The old house has long been considered an eyesore by the neighbors, who will not be disappointed to see the ancient landmark disappear.

PLAQUE OF DEVILFISH.

English Channel Invaded by Hordes of Octopi.

A plague as horrid in its way as any of those from which the ancient Egyptians suffered has assailed the south coast of England.

Countless hordes of octopi—the devil-fishes of Victor Hugo—have invaded the English channel and have swarmed along the shores of Devon and Cornwall in tremendous numbers. Traveling about in marauding armies, they have well night destroyed the local lobster and crab fisheries by devouring these crustaceans wholesale.

On the French side of the strait, especially in the department of Finistere, they are thrown up on the beaches by the sea after storms in such quantities that their loathsome bodies have been gathered up and removed by hundreds of cartloads to prevent them from endangering the public health by rotting.

Many of these creatures have a spread of six feet or more, the tentacles being three feet in length and covered with suckers as big as 50 cent pieces. But specimens have been seen very much greater in size, and individuals are known sometimes to attain a measurement of 16 feet from arm tip to arm tip. That the larger ones will readily attack human beings is well known, the sucking disks with which the arms are provided holding the victim with an irresistible force. Once fairly embraced by the animal there is small chance for the strongest man, unless he is lucky enough to have a big knife or a spear.

The most surprising point about the plague referred to is that the octopus has rarely been seen hitherto in British waters—so rarely, indeed, that during many years past specimens could be obtained for aquaria in England only at long intervals, and half a sovereign was frequently paid for a small one alive. It is very numerous in the Mediterranean and ranges as far north as the south side of the English channel, which is its extreme limit ordinarily.

Sick Man Grows Four Inches.

Robert King of Islip, N. Y., bids fair to be the tallest man in Suffolk. During the past few weeks he has grown four inches, and his height is now the talk of the town. King, who is 19 years of age, was taken ill with a fever some weeks ago. Before being taken ill he measured 5 feet 10 inches, and his present height is 6 feet 2 inches. His increased length was noticed when it was discovered that the bed was not long enough to allow him to stretch at full length. He was accordingly measured, and to the surprise of those who had been at his bedside during his illness it was found he had grown. It is supposed that the growth is due to the muscles relaxing. Unless the muscles contract upon his recovery he will be obliged to have a bedstead made to order.

ALL SUBSCRIBERS PLEASE NOTE

The publishers of the News Review are striving to improve their system of distribution of papers to subscribers and hope to have all ground for complaint removed in a short time. Failure to receive papers should be reported, first to the carrier, and then, if not remedied, to the business office of the News Review. While the carriers and agents, and not we, are responsible for the delivery of papers, we desire and aim to have the wishes of all subscribers promptly looked after.

The system adopted, as it is perhaps new to some of our readers, may require carriers. It sells the papers to agents who either distribute them themselves or employ boys to do so. Just as soon as a subscription is received at this office, the subscriber's name and address is turned over to the carrier on that route. The carrier is required to deliver the paper and also to collect the money for it. We desire to have it distinctly understood that the agents and carriers are in business for themselves, rather than for us, and while we help them all we can, and intend that their work shall be done

DILEMMA OF JAPAN

Will That Nation Engage In War
With Russia Now or Defer
Until Later?

AGGRESSION MUST BE CHECKED

Mr. Matsui Said if Russia Secures
Manchuria She Will Be on the Way
to Securing Korea—Chinese Minister Urges England.

London, March 26.—The Chinese minister, Sir Chih Chen Lo Feng Luh, called at the foreign office and urged the British government to bring pressure to bear in order to prevent Russia from securing the necessary signatures of the Manchurian agreement. The foreign office was still in the dark last night apparently as to whether the agreement will be signed or allowed to lapse when the time expires, March 26. The officials of the Japanese legation were inclined to believe Russia will succeed in getting the necessary signatures.

The situation was still more complicated owing to the fact, ascertained by a representative of the Associated Press, that there are two secret treaties, one of which is to be signed at St. Petersburg, dealing with Russia's military control of Manchuria, and another, to be signed at Pekin, dealing with her civil powers.

The Chinese appeals for support failed to produce any direct remonstrances from Great Britain, or apparently from any other power, to St. Petersburg, for Russia persistently adhered to her contention that the secret agreements concern no one except herself and China. On this ground Great Britain's request for copies of the agreement was abruptly declined.

It is explained at the foreign office here that it would be a dangerous and useless breach of diplomatic procedure to endeavor to enter upon exhortations with Russia which would only be based upon information supplied by the Chinese.

In other words, the copies of secret treaties and alleged modifications of them recently given to the powers by the Chinese, apparently, were worthless documents and will remain such until Russia herself chooses to communicate the text of the actual treaties and modifications.

In the absence of the Japanese minister in London, Baron Hayashi, Mr. Matsui, first secretary of the Japanese legation, who was interviewed yesterday afternoon by a representative of the Associated Press, made a comprehensive statement of the issues involved. He said:

"Russia's insistence, China's helplessness and the probable victory of Russian diplomacy tomorrow will bring us to the brink of a dangerous situation, in which none of the powers is so deeply concerned as Japan. Even if the secret treaties have been modified, as is alleged, the changes are so trifling as to make the documents thoroughly objectionable to Japan."

Assuming that China signs the treaties, I suppose Great Britain, Germany and the United States will protest to Russia. But that is about as far as they will go and about as much as they will get. With Japan it is a matter of fighting.

The question is whether we are to fight Russia now or to fight her later. She has no right to Manchuria, and if she secures Manchuria she will be on the way to securing Korea.

"Our government, I believe, are seriously considering the crisis. Their eyes are wide open and they will not be driven to precipitate action by the jingoists of Japan, who are openly clamoring for immediate war. Yet, if they see that was is unavoidable, they will not hesitate to strike."

"Japan has no reason to be afraid as to the result. Many reasons occur to the average Japanese mind in favor of forcing at the present moment a struggle which must come eventually. The chief reason against so doing is the fact that Japan is just beginning a new industrial era which would be temporarily killed should we endeavor by force of arms to prevent Russian encroachments."

"If we follow the lead of other powers and do not threaten hostilities, we realize that we must sit down tamely and see any other nation step in to make agreements similar to those which China seems on the verge of signing with Russia. This would mean the partition of the Chinese empire and the end of the 'open door.' If we opposed it, we naturally think we would have the moral support of the United States, which had been the champion of these principles, and also of Great Britain and Germany."

Boer Force Was Reported Near.

Queenstown, Cape Colony, March 28.—The town guard here was called out, owing to reports that a force of Boers was near the town. Business was shut down in order to allow the employees to man the trenches and forts day and night. The Boers, who were said to be about 20 miles off, were alleged to have crossed the railroad near Drummond.

FATAL GAS EXPLOSION

One Miner Dead, Others May Die From Mine Accident, Near Connellsville, Pa.

Connellsville, Pa., March 26.—A fatal mine explosion occurred in the new Klondike region of Fayette county. One man was killed instantly, five will die and 10 are burned and crushed so badly that it is doubtful if they will recover. The body of the dead man is missing. The injured men have been brought to the Cottage State hospital. As a result of the explosion the mine is on fire. The list of the dead and injured has not been completed. The following are a part of the victims:

The Dead.

An unknown Italian.

The Injured.

Robert Nelson, mine foreman; likely to die.

Gibson Gilmore, aged 40, of Dunbar; not expected to recover.

David Ramsey, a driver; not expected to recover.

James Wilson, little hope for his recovery.

James Murphy, a miner.

Michael Soloka, a Slav miner.

Alexander Bullayontis, a Slav miner.

George Yonkora, a Slav miner, of Gates.

The explosion was due to the opening of a pocket of gas by a dynamite blast. Those of the injured men who are able to talk place the responsibility for the accident on the men in charge of the mine. They assert that the fire boss quit last week and that proper inspections had not been made since.

HANNA PRESENT

Schwab, Morgan, Gates and Gary Also Participants at the Conference.

New York, March 26.—There was a conference of steel interests at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. It was attended by Mr. Morgan, Judge Gary, Charles M. Schwab, John W. Gates and Senator Mark Hanna.

After it was over the participants declined to go into particulars, although one of them said that the size and color of the new stock certificates of the United States Steel corporation were discussed. From other sources it was learned that the personnel of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation were decided upon.

Colonel Isaac I. Ellwood, of Chicago, declared last night that he would not oppose in any way the plans of J. Pierpont Morgan in perfecting the new billion dollar steel trust.

New York, March 26.—The announcement made last week that Messrs. J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. have purchased what is known as the Rockefeller interests in the ships, railways and mines of the northwest was confirmed by Mr. Rockefeller's representative, F. T. Gates, who is president of the Bessemer Steamship company; the Duluth, Mesaba and Northern railway and the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines.

STATEMENT FROM MITCHELL.

Had No Conference With Operators, But Would if Possible.

New York, March 26.—President Mitchell, of the miners' union, sent the following statement to Wilkes-Barre:

"I have had no conference with J. P. Morgan or any other railroad president or coal operator. Contrary to reports, we, the committee, did not come to New York in response to any invitation. So far as I know the miners have not up to this time been offered or granted any concessions. Of course we all hope to avert the strike and are putting forth our most urgent efforts to that end. We came to New York for the purpose of holding a conference, if possible, and in doing so we are simply carrying out the wishes expressed by a majority of those who attended the late conference at Hazleton."

SINGERLY'S TRANSFER STANDS.

Decided That Late Editor Was Sane at Time Transfer Was Made.

Philadelphia, March 26.—Assistant Attorney General James M. Beck, master in the suit pending in the United States circuit court to set aside the assignment of the Philadelphia Record for the benefit of the creditors of the defunct Chestnut Street National bank, of which William M. Singerly was president, filed his report in the United States court.

Mr. Beck finds that Mr. Singerly was sane at the time he transferred the newspaper property to Assignees George H. Harle, Jr., and Richard Y. Cook, and the transaction was therefore valid. He decrees that The Record shall be disposed of at public sale and settles claims in dispute amounting to over $2,000,000.

Calling the Doctor.

A good story is told of Dr. X., who is the physician in charge of the female wards of one of our best known charitable institutions. One evening about 9 o'clock Mary, a new Irish servant girl, knocked at the door, saying:

"Doctor, the head nurse wants you to come down to supper."

The doctor, swelling in his pride of superiority above the nurses, sent the Irish girl away with a curt message. Half an hour later the head nurse came to his room looking very serious.

"Doctor," she said, "No. 8 is very bad indeed. I think you ought to see her at once."

"Why did you not let me know before?" was the reply.

"Why, doctor," said the nurse. "I sent you word by Mary half an hour ago."

"The fool!" said the doctor. "She told me to come down to supper!"

"Why," said the nurse, "I sent you word to come down to eight."

An inquiry made the whole thing clear. Mary thought it more polite to say "Come down to supper" than to say "Come down to eat." Pearson's Weekly.

A Sensitive Scot.

A sensitive Scot rebukes the London Daily Chronicle for saying that his countrymen pronounce man "mon." "The absurd form 'mon,' he writes, "is the hall mark of Scots' vernacular as written by a southern pen, and its intrusion has often lent additional sadness to comic journalism, even, alas, to the pages of our chief humorous periodical. In the north of England 'mon' certainly occurs; in Scottish speech never. In Scott and Stevenson one may look for it in vain. The broad, soft vocalization of the word in Lothian dialect lies somewhere between 'maun' and 'mann,' but as it cannot be literally symbolized the word should be spelt in dialect passages simply as in English."

It is sometimes easier to step into another man's shoes than it is to walk in them.—Chicago News.

Some Reasons

Why E. Liverpool People Should Follow This Valuable Advice.

Because the proof is in E. Liverpool.

You can thus investigate the claims. When investigated they will prove satisfactory.

It demonstrates that theory gives way before facts.

Mrs. William Jones, who lives on Second street, says: "I was troubled off and on for eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys; a dull, aching pain across my loins up under my shoulder blades and rheumatic pains in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes of the weather, and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight. The trouble affected my nervous system, causing a frequent fluttering of the heart and shortness of breath. I generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy, obtained instant relief and a finally a cure."

To the Public.

The fact becomes more and more manifest each year that Liverpool township should have a representative on the board of county commissioners, and the undersigned takes this mean of announcing that he will be a candidate at the next county primary.

I had thought of being a candidate for the position at the late nomination, but upon interviewing the proposed candidate from this city, was assured by him that he was out for the position. I then decided to not oppose him.

Now that the field is clear I have no hesitation in announcing to my friends that I will be a candidate for the berth of county commissioner at the Republican primary in 1902. Hoping that my candidacy will receive favorable consideration at your hands, I am, yours truly,

RHEUMATIC WARPED LIMBS.

To suffer the most excruciating pains, to lose the use of limbs, and to have the joints swollen and disfigured is the lot of the victim of rheumatism.

Uric acid in the blood is the cause of rheumatism. If the kidneys are active, they remove the uric acid. That is their special work. If, on the other hand, the kidneys are deranged, there is sure to be uric acid in the blood and rheumatic pain through the body.

No amount of liniment will ever cure rheumatism. It sometimes relieves, but cure can only be brought about by setting the kidneys right. The most effective kidney remedy known to man is Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In them found immediate relief, and can honestly recommend them to other sufferers.

In the north of England 'mon' certainly occurs; in Scottish speech never. In Scott and Stevenson one may look for it in vain. The broad, soft vocalization of the word in Lothian dialect lies somewhere between 'maun' and 'mann,' but as it cannot be literally symbolized the word should be spelt in dialect passages simply as in English."

It is sometimes easier to step into another man's shoes than it is to walk in them.—Chicago News.

Some Reasons

Why E. Liverpool People Should Follow This Valuable Advice.

Because the proof is in E. Liverpool.

You can thus investigate the claims. When investigated they will prove satisfactory.

It demonstrates that theory gives way before facts.

Mrs. William Jones, who lives on Second street, says: "I was troubled off and on for eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys; a dull, aching pain across my loins up under my shoulder blades and rheumatic pains in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes of the weather, and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight. The trouble affected my nervous system, causing a frequent fluttering of the heart and shortness of breath. I generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy, obtained instant relief and a finally a cure."

To the Public.

The fact becomes more and more manifest each year that Liverpool township should have a representative on the board of county commissioners, and the undersigned takes this mean of announcing that he will be a candidate at the next county primary.

I had thought of being a candidate for the position at the late nomination, but upon interviewing the proposed candidate from this city, was assured by him that he was out for the position. I then decided to not oppose him. Now that the field is clear I have no hesitation in announcing to my friends that I will be a candidate for the berth of county commissioner at the Republican primary in 1902. Hoping that my candidacy will receive favorable consideration at your hands, I am, yours truly,

243-h-17-h R. G. BOYD.

The transport's slowly takin' on her lumber;
The line of cascades driftin' out to sea.
The 'tween deck full, she's got her ratin' number;
She's homeward bound, an' yit—she's leavin' me.

I got the very pipeclay in my marrow;
I like the heft, I love the feel of me.
I got no use fer smoothed down ways nor narrow;
I like the life, an' so I'll 'list again.

An it's three rounds blank, an' mark the place

Three rounds blank, an' there ain't a chaplain nigh.
Escort turn! Oh, keep your touch in marchin'

An the dust clouds risin' like a devil in the breeze.
Eyes filled with dust an' the mouth an' throat a-parchin',
An they load you on the transport fer your final trip to sea.

Love an' ease an' fame the goals we cannot reach,
But we're liftin' up the flag, an' we've that at least to nerve us.

CONDITIONS AND THEORIES.

New iron mills are starting almost daily; new works are being erected and others projected; new tin plate plants are springing up and old ones running full time. Such are the reports that come from such manufacturing centers as Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Youngstown, as well as from other cities of less importance in the industrial world. In East Liverpool and vicinity the pottery industry has seldom if ever been more flourishing; improvement is the order of the day, and several neighboring towns are rejoicing at the prospect of establishments that will enable them to share to more or less extent the prosperity which seems general in this branch of manufacturing.

Nor is the industrial expansion confined to old lines of business. Demand and inventive genius have created numerous new industries, some of them of a magnitude very imperfectly understood by the general public. Just outside the city limits of Pittsburgh is a striking example of the progress and prosperity possible under the McKinley administration. The Pressed Steel Car company's works at Schenaville, adjacent to the town of McKee's Rocks, occupies with its plant and the houses of its workmen scores of acres that, perhaps two years ago, were little more than waste land, encumbered with stumps and not even utilized for farming purposes. Land in that locality has risen many hundred per cent in value in the same period; even the woods have been invaded by spreading towns, and, while builders are constantly at work, houses cannot be erected fast enough to supply the demand for them. The company, new and unknown until recently, finds its products in such demand that it cannot begin to fill the orders it receives, and it is never without millions of dollars worth of contracts to be filled months ahead.

How much of the increase and activity in all lines of business would we have witnessed had Bryan been elected in 1896? And how many new works would have been started this year, had he been successful in his campaign last fall? Contrasting existing conditions with Bryan theories, prophecies fulfilled by Republicans with Democratic predictions of evil in the event of Republican success, the wonder is that any American workingman can ally himself with the party opposed to progress.

A TAX ON BACHELORS.

Pennsylvania has a genius in her legislature, and he has drafted a bill to encourage early marriages and to provide for the comfort and support of single ladies of more than marriageable age. His bill, if we understand its purport, would make a bachelor of 40 or over pay $100 for his marriage license if he desired to get one, and would annul his marriage should he go out of Pennsylvania and procure a license and a wife at less cost. The money collected in this way is to be used for the purpose of maintaining "homes for old ladies over 40 years of age who have not had a suitable opportunity or offer of marriage."

It strikes us that there are more fatal defects in this bill than in the average one that receives the attention of the general assembly of Pennsylvania, with all the legislative monstrosities there manufactured. Young people don't need much legislation to induce them to marry if the old folks keep out of the parlor and make no protests if George stays 40 or even 140 minutes after the curfew bell has rung. And a $100 tax is not calculated to drive old bachelors into matrimony. They are timid enough any way, and that burden added to their other woriments would keep most of them forever single. And "old ladies over 40?" Where is there any lady who is going to confess that she is either old or forty? As for offers of marriage, the man is a lunatic if he expects any single lady, whether 16 or 60, to acknowledge that she never had one.

Early marriages are all right if the young people have sense; otherwise they are a bane and not a blessing. But the ideal matches, which never fizzle after they have been lighted, are made in a far better place than the Pennsylvania legislature.

SCOTT'S CHOICE.

Senator Scott, of West Virginia, himself a native of this state, is not quite easy, although an Ohio man has just been inaugurated president and has four years yet to serve. He wants the assurance that a son of the Buckeye state will sit in the executive chair after 1905, and therefore hastens to nominate Senator Hanna for election in 1904. There is just one serious difficulty in the way of carrying out Mr. Scott's wish. Marcus A. Hanna of Cleveland, has not been consulted about the matter. When he has been he will undoubtedly put a quietus upon it.

The oriental war clouds shift fast and frequently, and appear to be of a rather light form of mist.

These spring days force the question to the front: Where is our baseball team?

The tin can trust will not corner the market. It will merely seal it up.

Pathetic Fate of a Man Who Had a Hard Struggle for Life.

Steubenville, March 26.—William Mehollin, a farmer of Smithfield township, after struggling all his life to get on his feet and square with the world, died last week just as he had realized a small competence from the sale of coal lands. He had gotten deeply in debt, and his one hope in life was to get out of debt before his death. The sale of the coal rights realized him $7,000, and the very day he received the money he set out to pay all his debts.

The day after his indebtedness had been wiped out he was taken ill with pneumonia and death followed.

In the very oldest fossil bearing rocks no insects are found. The very oldest fossil is a kind of polyp, making reefs of limestone when as yet the insects had not appeared, and it "flourished" in Canada.

The first insect known to have existed, a creature of such vast antiquity that it deserves all the respect which the parvenu man can summon and offer to it, was a cockroach. This, the father of all black beetles, probably walked on the earth in solitary magnificence when not only kitchens, but even kitchen middens, were undreamed of, possibly millions of years before neolithic man had even a back cave to offer, with the remains of last night's supper, for the cockroach of the period to enjoy. His discovery established the fact that in the silurian period there were insects, though, as the only piece of his remains found was a wing, there has been room for dispute as to the exact species.

Mr. Goss in his preface to the second edition of his book notes says that what is probably a still older insect has been found in the lower silurian in Sweden. This was not a cockroach, but apparently something worse. If the Latin name, Protocimex silurius, literally translated it means the original silurian bug.—Spectator.

Animals Without Feet.

The hooved animals, like the horse and the stag, have, strictly speaking, no feet, for they walk on their nails, and their feet have become part of their legs. The advantage seems to be a lengthening of the stride, just as a trained athlete learns to run on his toes.

Every detail perfect," suggested the maid of honor.

"Oh, I don't know. We might make an exception of the groom, don't you think?"

"Oh, possibly, possibly," admitted the maid of honor, "but that's a minor detail, anyway."—Chicago Post.

In the very oldest fossil bearing rocks no insects are found. The very oldest fossil is a kind of polyp, making reefs of limestone when as yet the insects had not appeared, and it "flourished" in Canada.

The first insect known to have existed, a creature of such vast antiquity that it deserves all the respect which the parvenu man can summon and offer to it, was a cockroach. This, the father of all black beetles, probably walked on the earth in solitary magnificence when not only kitchens, but even kitchen middens, were undreamed of, possibly millions of years before neolithic man had even a back cave to offer, with the remains of last night's supper, for the cockroach of the period to enjoy. His discovery established the fact that in the silurian period there were insects, though, as the only piece of his remains found was a wing, there has been room for dispute as to the exact species.

Mr. Goss in his preface to the second edition of his book notes says that what is probably a still older insect has been found in the lower silurian in Sweden. This was not a cockroach, but apparently something worse. If the Latin name, Protocimex silurius, be literally translated it means the original silurian bug.—Spectator.

"Oh, possibly, possibly," admitted the maid of honor. "But that's a minor detail, anyway."—Chicago Post.

CONDITIONS AND THEORIES.

New iron mills are starting almost daily; new works are being erected and others projected; new tin plate plants are springing up and old ones running full time. Such are the reports that come from such manufacturing centers as Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Youngstown, as well as from other cities of less importance in the industrial world. In East Liverpool and vicinity the pottery industry has seldom if ever been more flourishing; improvement is the order of the day, and several neighboring towns are rejoicing at the prospect of establishments that will enable them to share to more or less extent the prosperity which seems general in this branch of manufacturing.

Nor is the industrial expansion confined to old lines of business. Demand and inventive genius have created numerous new industries, some of them of a magnitude very imperfectly understood by the general public. Just outside the city limits of Pittsburgh is a striking example of the progress and prosperity possible under the McKinley administration. The Pressed Steel Car company's works at Schoenerville, adjacent to the town of McKee's Rocks, occupies with its plant and the houses of its workmen scores of acres that, perhaps two years ago, were little more than waste land, encumbered with stumps and not even utilized for farming purposes. Land in that locality has risen many hundred per cent in value in the same period; even the woods have been invaded by spreading towns, and, while builders are constantly at work, houses cannot be erected fast enough to supply the demand for them. The company, new and unknown until recently, finds its products in such demand that it cannot begin to fill the orders it receives, and it is never without millions of dollars worth of contracts to be filled months ahead.

How much of the increase and activity in all lines of business would we have witnessed had Bryan been elected in 1896? And how many new works would have been started this year, had he been successful in his campaign last fall? Contrasting existing conditions with Bryan theories, prophesies fulfilled by Republicans with Democratic predictions of evil in the event of Republican success, the wonder is that any American workingman can ally himself with the party opposed to progress.

A TAX ON BACHELORS.

Pennsylvania has a genius in her legislature, and he has drafted a bill to encourage early marriages and to provide for the comfort and support of single ladies of more than marriageable age. His bill, if we understand its purport, would make a bachelor of 40 or over pay $100 for his marriage license if he desired to get one, and would annul his marriage should he go out of Pennsylvania and procure a license and a wife at less cost. The money collected in this way is to be used for the purpose of maintaining "homes for old ladies over 40 years of age who have not had a suitable opportunity or offer of marriage."

It strikes us that there are more fatal defects in this bill than in the average one that receives the attention of the general assembly of Pennsylvania, with all the legislative monstrosities there manufactured. Young people don't need much legislation to induce them to marry if the old folks keep out of the parlor and make no protests if George stays 40 or even 140 minutes after the curfew bell has rung. And a $100 tax is not calculated to drive old bachelors into matrimony. They are timid enough any way, and that burden added to their other woriments would keep most of them forever single. And "old ladies over 40!" Where is there any lady who is going to confess that she is either old or forty? As for offers of marriage, the man is a lunatic if he expects any single lady, whether 16 or 60, to acknowledge that she never had one.

Early marriages are all right if the young people have sense; otherwise they are a bane and not a blessing. But the ideal matches, which never fizzle after they have been lighted, are made in a far better place than the Pennsylvania legislature.

SCOTT'S CHOICE.

Senator Scott, of West Virginia, himself a native of this state, is not quite easy, although an Ohio man has just been inaugurated president and has four years yet to serve. He wants the assurance that a son of the Buckeye state will sit in the executive chair after 1905, and therefore hastens to nominate Senator Hanna for election in 1904. There is just one serious difficulty in the way of carrying out Mr. Scott's wish. Marcus A. Hanna, of Cleveland, has not been consulted about the matter. When he has been he will undoubtedly put a quietus upon it.

PAID DEBTS AND DIED.

Pathetic Fate of a Man Who Had a Hard Struggle for Life.

Steubenville, March 26.—William Mehollin, a farmer of Smithfield township, after struggling all his life to get on his feet and square with the world, died last week just as he had realized a small competence from the sale of coal lands. He had gotten deeply in debt, and his one hope in life was to get out of debt before his death. The sale of the coal rights realized him $7,000, and the very day he received the money he set out to pay all his debts.

The day after his indebtedness had been wiped out he was taken ill with pneumonia and death followed.

Animals Without Feet.

The hooved animals, like the horse and the stag, have, strictly speaking, no feet, for they walk on their nails, and their feet have become part of their legs. The advantage seems to be a lengthening of the stride, just as a trained athlete learns to run on his toes to increase his pace. There is also the further advantage of no soft part to be injured by contact with the ground. Some monkeys have four hands, which must be a great advantage in climbing. The absence of legs as well as feet is an advantage to many animals that have to travel rapidly through the water or between the branches of trees or other obstructions.

Legs would be but an obstruction to the tadpole while he swims by means of his powerful tail, but when he leaves the water legs and feet become an advantage. So the snake is able to creep through underwood and into small holes with far greater ease without legs, and even the slow worm which seems such a helpless animal on flat ground, can creep through a hedge with remarkable ease and speed. The rudiments of legs are to be found in many snakes, so that there can be but little doubt that the absence of legs has proved an advantage and that natural selection has removed them.

Writing an Ad.

Did you ever stop to think, you who read the advertisement in the newspapers, just what it means to get up the "ad." every day for a big department store? The man in charge usually has a staff of assistants, who are assigned to certain departments of the store each day. They must familiarize themselves with the stock of these departments, while the manager of the advertising department himself is supposed to keep thoroughly in touch with the entire stock of the store. He writes the general introduction to the advertisement each day and edits the copy turned in to him by his assistants, just as an editor handles the copy of his reporters.

"Just as much care is taken with this matter as though it were so much imperishable literature," said the advertising manager of a big department store. "You sometimes hear of a famous author spending hours over one paragraph, writing it and rewriting it to get the best and strongest effect. You wouldn't think that would be necessary in writing an advertisement, but it is. My assistants sometimes spend an hour over one sentence. There is more science in writing an advertisement that will bring results than perhaps in any other form of composition."—Philadelphia Record.

Bogged.

While traveling in Cornwall in 1891 Rev. S. Baring-Gould came near being overwhelmed in a bog. He and his companions got lost and at dusk found themselves in a bog called Redmire. Six bullocks had already been lost there that year. Mr. Baring-Gould's adventure is related in his "Book of the West."

"All at once I sank above my waist and was being sucked farther down. I cried to my companion, but in the darkness he could not see me, and had he seen me he could have done nothing for me. The water finally reached my armpits.

"Happily I had a stout bamboo some six feet long, and I placed this athwart the surface and held it with my arms as far expanded as possible. By jerks I succeeded in gradually lifting myself and throwing my body forward till finally I was able to cast myself at full length on the surface. The suction had been so great as to tear my leather gaiters off my legs.

"I lay at full length gasping for nearly a quarter of an hour before I had breath and strength to advance, and then wormed myself along on my breast till I reached dry land. My companion, it turned out, had had a similar experience."

An Ample Kitchen.

What is said to be the largest kitchen in England is that of Raby Castle, the seat of the Duke of Cleveland. It is 30 feet square, having three chimneys, one for the grate, a second for the stoves, and the third for the great caldron. The roof is arched, with a small cupola in the center. It has five windows, from each of which steps descend, but only in one instance to the floor, and a gallery runs round the whole interior of the building. The ancient oven has a diameter of 15 feet.

Vast as this kitchen is, it must have been sometimes taxed by the hospitality of former ages, for in one of the apartments of the great castle 700 knights were upon one occasion entertained at the same time. And the knights of that day were men of brawn and sinew, who would think lightly of demolishing each man of them, five pounds of beef, half a sucking pig, a venison pasty or two, washed down with huge flagons of brown October.—New York Tribune.

The Topaz.

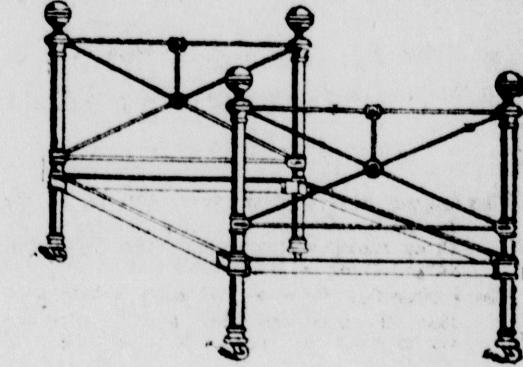

The word topaz comes from the Greek verb signifying to guess. The jewel was brought from the east and reported to have come from an island, and men guessed at the location of the isle, which produced such beautiful gems.

Julius Was Stumped, So He Concluded to Return the Property.

"I was in Mississippi during the carpetbag days," said the Pittsburg story teller, "and one night at a hotel I was robbed of watch and money. I found out next day that it was one of the colored servants, and I went to a justice of the peace and swore out a warrant. The justice was also a colored man, and he didn't seem anxious to do the right thing. I think he was in with the thief, though willing to give me a show. When the prisoner took the stand, he declared that if he had stolen anything it was while he was walking around in his sleep. The statement caught his honor, and he said:

"How yo' gwine to hold a possum 'spensive fur what he does in his sleep? Dar ain't no law 'bout dat. If Julius dun took dat watch an' money an' didn't know what he was doin', den he's got to be discharged from custody."

"I was pleading my own case," continued the Iron City man, "and I replied to the judge that the rule ought to work both ways. If Julius had taken my property in his sleep, he ought to return it while he was in the same condition. I wasn't blaming him for being a somnambulist and was willing he should go free, but I should expect him to enter my room in his sleep that very night and leave my lost property on a chair. That was a stumper on judge and prisoner, and after scratching their heads and wiggling around his honor replied:

"Julius, dis yere case has dun got mixed up. 'Cordin to law yo' got away wid de stuff an can't be held, but 'cordin to de white man's dreambook yo's got to walk in yo' sleep ag'in tonight an put yo's stealin's back in his room. Dat will leabe everyting jest as it was befo', an it 'pears to me dat yo'd better tackle some older man an do it wid yo' eyes wide open."

"Julius didn't wait to walk in his sleep again, but handed me my property before we left the courtroom"—Philadelphia Press.

Very Particular.

Mrs. Morse had never used a telephone until her husband had one put into the house so that he might talk with her from his office whenever he wished.

"I do just love to talk through the telephone!" Mrs. Morse declared after three days' experience. "The time doesn't seem half as long from morning till night as it used to when I never heard from you."

"I'm glad of that, my dear," said her husband pleasantly. "I've thought once or twice from the number of times I had to ring up before getting any answer that you didn't enjoy it."

"Oh, no, George," said little Mrs. Morse earnestly, "but you know sometimes when you ring me up I'm busy about my housework with my old apron on, and of course, knowing how particular you are, I always like to unpin my skirt and put on a clean white apron before I begin to talk to you, don't you see?"—Youth's Companion.

How Flags Wear Out.

It costs money to fly even two small flags every day in the year. The two small ones on the east and west fronts of the capitol, each about three yards long, which is small for such an immense structure as the capitol, fray out so fast that it costs $100 a year to replace them. They are darned every day and on windy days probably two or three times. Even with all these economies $100 worth of fine wool floats off into the air in such fine particles that never a trace of it can be found even at the foot of the two flagstaffs.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Not Second Sight.

In happenings that savor of the supernatural there is often less rather than more than is "dreamt of in philosophy."

In the English county of Wilts there lived a woman whose deceased husband had been a pig dealer. After his death it was her habit to remark to chance visitors, without looking out the window:

"That's a nice lot of young pigs, those."

"Where?" the person present was sure to ask.

"Comin down the road," was the invariable reply. "They're in a cart, and, what's more, there's a fine fat sow among 'em."

And it would not be long before a cart would appear and in it a litter of pigs and among them the sow which the woman had perceived at such a distance up the road. One day a visitor, who saw in this exhibition an evidence of second sight, exclaimed:

"How do you do it? It is simply wonderful!"

"Tain't no miracle," was the modest reply. "I've just got my ear trained to pigs—that's all."

A Nervy Museum Manager.

Sarah Bernhardt said that one night during a visit to America when she was playing "Jeanne d'Arc," she hurt her knee with a rusty nail. "The wound gave me considerable pain and trouble," she said, "and it was thought that a slight operation might possibly be required. This fact appeared in the daily papers, and a day or two afterward I received a telegram from the manager of a museum in Chicago saying that if it was necessary to amputate my leg might he please have it. He added he would drape it if desired."

"An umbrella is a good deal like a fellow's hair," remarked the observer of events and things. "If you lose it, you seldom get it back again."

The Place to Wash Him.

On one occasion an M. P. of a past generation not noted for his habits of personal tidiness was visiting a seaside place, and one day while out in a boat with a sailing party he was swept overboard, but was happily rescued. When the excitement was over, a young fellow rushed down into the cabin.

"By Jove," he exclaimed, "we've been having such an exciting time on deck!"

"What is it?" asked everybody.

"Mr. Blank was washed overboard."

"I'm glad of it," snapped a fastidious matron.

Everybody was horrified.

"Well, I am," she explained. "Just think of that man being washed overboard!"—London Answers.

WRITING AN AD.

Did you ever stop to think, you who read the advertisement in the newspapers, just what it means to get up the "ad." every day for a big department store? The man in charge usually has a staff of assistants, who are assigned to certain departments of the store each day. They must familiarize themselves with the stock of these departments, while the manager of the advertising department himself is supposed to keep thoroughly in touch with the entire stock of the store. He writes the general introduction to the advertisement each day and edits the copy turned in to him by his assistants, just as an editor handles the copy of his reporters.

"Just as much care is taken with this matter as though it were so much imperishable literature," said the advertising manager of a big department store. "You sometimes hear of a famous author spending hours over one paragraph, writing it and rewriting it to get the best and strongest effect. You wouldn't think that would be necessary in writing an advertisement, but it is. My assistants sometimes spend an hour over one sentence. There is more science in writing an advertisement that will bring results than perhaps in any other form of composition."—Philadelphia Record.

Bogged.

While traveling in Cornwall in 1891 Rev. S. Baring-Gould came near being overwhelmed in a bog. He and his companions got lost and at dusk found themselves in a bog called Redmire. Six bullocks had already been lost there that year. Mr. Baring-Gould's adventure is related in his "Book of the West."

"All at once I sank above my waist and was being sucked farther down. I cried to my companion, but in the darkness he could not see me, and had he seen me he could have done nothing for me. The water finally reached my armpits.

"Happily I had a stout bamboo some six feet long, and I placed this athwart the surface and held it with my arms as far expanded as possible. By jerks I succeeded in gradually lifting myself and throwing my body forward till finally I was able to cast myself at full length on the surface. The suction had been so great as to tear my leather gaiters off my legs.

"I lay at full length gasping for nearly a quarter of an hour before I had breath and strength to advance, and then wormed myself along on my breast till I reached dry land. My companion, it turned out, had had a similar experience."

AN AMPLE KITCHEN.

What is said to be the largest kitchen in England is that of Baby Castle, the seat of the Duke of Cleveland. It is 30 feet square, having three chimneys, one for the grate, a second for the stoves, and the third for the great caldron. The roof is arched, with a small cupola in the center. It has five windows, from each of which steps descend, but only in one instance to the floor, and a gallery runs round the whole interior of the building. The ancient oven has a diameter of 15 feet.

Vast as this kitchen is, it must have been sometimes taxed by the hospitality of former ages, for in one of the apartments of the great castle 700 knights were upon one occasion entertained at the same time. And the knights of that day were men of brawn and sinew, who would think lightly of demolishing, each man of them, five pounds of beef, half a sucking pig, a venison pasty or two, washed down with huge flagons of brown October.—New York Tribune.

THE TOPAZ.

The word topaz comes from the Greek verb signifying to guess. The jewel was brought from the east and reported to have come from an island, and men guessed at the location of the isle, which produced such beautiful gems.

Not Second Sight.

In happenings that savor of the supernatural there is often less rather than more than is "dreamt of in philosophy."

In the English county of Wiltshire there lived a woman whose deceased husband had been a pig dealer. After his death it was her habit to remark to chance visitors, without looking out the window:

"That's a nice lot of young pigs, those."

"Where?" the person present was sure to ask.

"Comin down the road," was the invariable reply. "They're in a cart, and, what's more, there's a fine fat sow among 'em."

And it would not be long before a cart would appear and in it a litter of pigs and among them the sow which the woman had perceived at such a distance up the road. One day a visitor, who saw in this exhibition an evidence of second sight, exclaimed:

"How do you do it? It is simply wonderful!"

"Tain't no miracle," was the modest reply. "I've just got my ear trained to pigs—that's all."

A Nervy Museum Manager.

Sarah Bernhardt said that one night during a visit to America when she was playing "Jeanne d'Arc," she hurt her knee with a rusty nail. "The wound gave me considerable pain and trouble," she said, "and it was thought that a slight operation might possibly be required. This fact appeared in the daily papers, and a day or two afterward I received a telegram from the manager of a museum in Chicago saying that if it was necessary to amputate my leg might be please have it. He added he would drape it if desired."

PREPARED FOR HER

Proprietor of a Carrie Nation Saloon Was Ready to Meet the Smasher.

HAD HIS REVOLVER READY

Declared He would Have Killed Her. She Merely Laughed When He Ordered Her to Leave—Objected to Having His Place Called For Her.

St. Louis, March 26.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, of Kansas, passed through this city. She stopped long enough to visit a liquor establishment on Market street bearing her name.

Mrs. Nation, followed by a crowd, called the proprietor to task for daring to name his establishment after her. The saloon man said he "belonged to the nation, as did his customers," and he meant to retain the name.

Mrs. Nation was compelled to continue her journey without making any change in the nomenclature of the saloon.

Mrs. Nation, defying all orders to leave the saloon, remained as long as she could, without missing her train, and as she left she laughed at Sauerberger, the proprietor.

"I didn't mean to smash anything," she said, and waving her hand to the crowd that stood about she started on the return to the depot. After she disappeared Sauerberger pulled from his right coat pocket a loaded revolver.

"If she had ever made a move to smash anything I'd have killed her sure. But I'd give her $25 a day to sit on my ice chest and keep still."

It was while eating a sandwich at the lunch counter before her visit to the saloon that Mrs. Nation said she would not smash if she could only vote. She had just shaken hands with a dozen small boys.

"They are going to take up my work when I am done. They can vote, and the vote is the best hatchet. If I could vote I wouldn't smash any more."

CHINESE RESOURCES.

Might Be Able to Pay Indemnities Within 20 Years.

Pekin, March 26.—The special committee of ministers appointed to consider the question of China's ability to meet the indemnity plans was already well forward with the work of investigating the resources of the empire. Sir Robert Hart, director general of the imperial maritime customs, has been examined, as also have the managers of the representative Chinese banks, many pawn brokers and other Chinese financiers. The consular reports for a number of years back have been closely read.

It now appears that from all sources the annual revenue aggregates about $65,000,000 gold, derived from the land tax, the grain tax, the Likin, the customs, the opium tax and miscellaneous imports. The largest two items are the land tax, which brings in $14,000,000, and the foreign customs, which yields $12,000,000.

In the opinion of all the foreigners who have participated in the examination the land tax could be doubled and even tripled without much hardship, and the salt tax could be raised from $6,000,000 to $20,000,000.

It is believed that the total increase could be made to amount to $150,000,000. If then the imperial expenses could be reduced to $45,000,000, there would be left available for liquidation of the interest on loans and the indemnity fund the sum of $105,000,000.

Making all allowances, it would be possible to pay the indemnity within 20 years.

BOER FORCE ATTACKED.

Gen. Delahey's Force Driven and Some Guns Captured.

London, March 26.—The war office received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener:

Pretoria, March 25.—Babington's force, including Shekleton's column, attacked Delahey, 1,500 strong, southwest of Ventersdorp, and, having defeated him, followed him up rapidly, with the result that the Boer rear guard was driven in and their convoy, including the guns, captured at Vaalbank.

"Our troops displayed great gallantry and dash. They captured two 15-pounder guns, one pompon, six Maxims, 320 rounds of big ammunition, 15,000 rounds of small ammunition, 160 rifles, 53 wagons and 24 carts, besides taking 140 prisoners. "Our losses were slight. Many Boers were killed or wounded."

TORNADO IN SOUTH.

ESTIMATED 25 WERE KILLED IN ALABAMA.

Destruction of Property Placed at About a Quarter of a Million Dollars.

Birmingham, Ala., March 26.—A fearful tornado, traveling in an easterly direction, swept over the southern part of this city. The number of killed was estimated at 25, of whom five are white. The storm struck the city in the extreme southwestern corner and plowed its way eastward, leaving a path 150 feet wide through the entire southern section, extending from Green Springs on the west to Avondale on the east and continued its course until its fury was spent in the mountains beyond Irondale, a small town six miles east of the city.

ROTH WANTED TO HEDGE.

Tried to Have His Marriage Bill Withdrawn.

Harrisburg, March 26.—Among other proceedings in the house last night, Mr. Roth, of Lehigh, arose to a question of personal privilege and created much amusement by explaining that on Friday he was given a bachelor's bill by his friends on the Republican side of the house and that he introduced it as a joke. Some persons have taken the bill seriously, and, therefore, he would ask unanimous consent to withdraw it. Mr. Slater, of Philadelphia, chairman of the law and order committee, to which it was referred, said the committee had a right to act upon it, and objected to permission being given his colleague to withdraw it.

Among other proceedings in the senate last night the most important bills to pass second reading were those relating to the Philadelphia board of revision of taxes.

These bills were amended so as to correct a few typographical errors, and they were then passed without opposition. They may come up for final passage this afternoon.

SUPPORT GUFFEY'S BILL.

Pennsylvania Republican Leaders Decide to Ask Senators to Do So.

Harrisburg, March 26.—At a conference of the Republican leaders, held at the governor's mansion late last night, it was decided to request the Republican senators and members of the house to support the Guffey ballot reform bill, with the understanding, however, that the circle at the head of the party column should be allowed to remain.

It was also decided to ask the Republicans of both houses to support the Woodruff amendment to the constitution, providing for personal registration of voters in the cities and to take up and pass the apportionment bills now on the calendars.

For Trip of Ohio Congressmen.

Washington, March 26.—General Grosvenor, of Ohio, practically completed the arrangements for the trip of the Ohio congressional delegation to San Francisco on the occasion of the launching of the battleship Ohio. The only point still in doubt is whether the return trip from Duluth to Cleveland shall be by boat or by rail. It is understood that one, and possibly two, special trains will convey Governor Nash and the other Ohioans to the launching.

Baldwin Appointed a Consul.

Washington, March 26.—Among the political appointments announced was this one: George E. Baldwin, of Ohio, to be consul of the United States at Nuremberg, Bavaria.

TOOK ACID.

A Leetonia Man Almost Lost His Life Saturday, Getting the Wrong Medicine.

David Ward, a citizen of Leetonia, 45 years of age, took a spoonful of carbolic acid Saturday morning at his home in that village.

It was reported Ward took the drug with suicidal intent, but the members of his family deny that this was his intention. Ward is unable to read or write, and it is claimed that he made a mistake, as it was his intention to take some medicine. Ward is still living, although in bad shape.

The chances for his recovery are very meagre.

CARRIE AND HER HATCHET.

Mrs. Nation's Manager is Negotiating For a Date in Mansfield.

Manager Endly, of the Memorial, Mansfield, is in receipt of a letter from the manager of Carrie Nation, the advocate of the hatchet method of combatting the liquor traffic, asking for open time at Memorial during the next few weeks. The Kansas terror is coming to Ohio soon to lecture in Cincinnati and at such other places as her manager can make dates. The manager is not at all bashful about terms, asking a guarantee of $150 and a large percentage end. It is hardly probable that Carrie will find Mansfield on her list.

ESTIMATED 25 WERE KILLED IN ALABAMA.

Destruction of Property Placed at About a Quarter of a Million Dollars.

Birmingham, Ala., March 26.—A fearful tornado, traveling in an eastern direction, swept over the southern part of this city. The number of killed was estimated at 25, of whom five are white. The destruction of property is placed at a quarter of a million dollars. Eighteen bodies have been recovered up to about 7 o'clock last evening and scores of injured have been removed to the hospitals.

Among the dead are Dr. G. C. Chapman, of the firm of Tally & Chapman, who conduct a private infirmary in this city, and the wife and infant child of Robert J. Lowe, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee.

Following is the list of identified dead and known injured. The dead: Dr. G. C. Chapman, Mrs. Robert J. Lowe, infant child of Mrs. Lowe, J. Alexander, little daughter of B. B. Hudson, F. The storm struck the city in the extreme southwestern corner and plowed its way eastward, leaving a path 150 feet wide through the entire southern section, extending from Green Springs on the west to Avondale on the east and continued its course until its fury was spent in the mountains beyond Ironton, a small town six miles east of the city.

ROTH WANTED TO HEDGE.

Tried to Have His Marriage Bill Withdrawn.

Harrisburg, March 26.—Among other proceedings in the house last night, Mr. Roth, of Lehigh, arose to a question of personal privilege and created much amusement by explaining that on Friday he was given a bachelor's bill by his friends on the Republican side of the house and that he introduced it as a joke. Some persons have taken the bill seriously, and, therefore, he would ask unanimous consent to withdraw it. Mr. Slater, of Philadelphia, chairman of the law and order committee, to which it was referred, said the committee had a right to act upon it, and objected to permission being given his colleague to withdraw it.

Among other proceedings in the senate last night the most important bills to pass second reading were those relating to the Philadelphia board of revision of taxes. These bills were amended so as to correct a few typographical errors, and they were then passed without opposition. They may come up for final passage this afternoon.

SUPPORT GUFFEY'S BILL.

Pennsylvania Republican Leaders Decide to Ask Senators to Do So.

Harrisburg, March 26.—At a conference of the Republican leaders, held at the governor's mansion late last night, it was decided to request the Republican senators and members of the house to support the Guffey ballot reform bill, with the understanding, however, that the circle at the head of the party column should be allowed to remain.

It was also decided to ask the Republicans of both houses to support the Woodruff amendment to the constitution, providing for personal registration of voters in the cities and to take up and pass the apportionment bills now on the calendars.

For Trip of Ohio Congressmen.

Washington, March 26.—General Grosvenor, of Ohio, practically completed the arrangements for the trip of the Ohio congressional delegation to San Francisco on the occasion of the launching of the battleship Ohio. The only point still in doubt is whether the return trip from Duluth to Cleveland shall be by boat or by rail. It is understood that one, and possibly two, special trains will convey Governor Nash and the other Ohioans to the launching.

Baldwin Appointed a Consul.

Washington, March 26.—Among the political appointments announced was this one: George E. Baldwin, of Ohio, to be consul of the United States at Nuremberg, Bavaria.

TOOK ACID.

A Leetonia Man Almost Lost His Life Saturday, Getting the Wrong Medicine.

David Ward, a citizen of Leetonia, 45 years of age, took a spoonful of carbolic acid Saturday morning at his home in that village.

It was reported Ward took the drug with suicidal intent, but the members of his family deny that this was his intention. Ward is unable to read or write, and it is claimed that he made a mistake, as it was his intention to take some medicine. Ward is still living, although in bad shape.

The chances for his recovery are very meager.

CARRIE AND HER HATCHET.

Mrs. Nation's Manager is Negotiating For a Date in Mansfield.

Manager Endly, of the Memorial, Mansfield, is in receipt of a letter from the manager of Carrie Nation, the advocate of the hatchet method of combatting the liquor traffic, asking for open time at Memorial during the next few weeks. The Kansas terror is coming to Ohio soon to lecture in Cincinnati and at such other places as her manager can make dates. The manager is not at all bashful about terms, asking a guarantee of $150 and a large percentage end. It is hardly probable that Carrie will find Mansfield on her list.

REPLY OF ENGLAND

The British Government Desired to Have the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty Stand.

IT WAS AN ACT OF FRIENDSHIP

Such Was Agreement to Modify Treaty—England Would Be Put In Worse Condition Than Other Nations By One Senate Amendment.

Washington, March 26.—The answer of the British government, expressing its inability to accept the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in the form amended by the United States senate, was made public. It is in the form of a communication from Lord Lansdowne, British minister of foreign affairs, to Lord Pauncefote, and asks the latter to read the dispatch to the secretary of state and to leave a copy in his hands. It was in part as follows:

Lord Lansdowne said there was no desire on the part of the British government to change the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. But some of its provisions, he says, had been regarded with disfavor by the government of the United States, and in the president's message of December, 1898, it was urged that the national policy called more imperatively than ever for the control of the projected highway by the government of the United States. Lord Pauncefote made inquiry of the secretary of state as to this attitude of the president. The president wished to have the treaty modified by friendly negotiations. Later the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was framed.

Accepted as Proof of Friendship.

Later the introduction of the Nicaragua canal bill in congress revived attention to the treaty, and it was accepted. Lord Lansdowne saying: "Her majesty's government, after due consideration, determined to accept the convention unconditionally, as a signal proof of their friendly disposition and of their desire not to impede the execution of a project declared to be of national importance to the people of the United States."

Lord Lansdowne then discusses and denies the right of the United States to annul the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

Lord Lansdowne further along considers the senate amendments and points out formidable difficulties.

Lord Lansdowne shows that under article 1 of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty the two parties agreed that neither would occupy or fortify or colonize, or assume or exercise any dominion over any part of Central America, nor attain any of the foregoing objects by alliance with any state or people of Central America. There is no similar agreement in the convention. If, therefore, the treaty were wholly abrogated, both powers would, except in the vicinity of the canal, recover entire freedom of action in Central America. This change, he thinks, would certainly be of advantage to the United States, and might be of substantial importance.

The other two amendments, in the opinion of Lord Lansdowne, present more formidable difficulties. The first of them—the so-called Davis amendment, which reserves to the United States the right of taking any measure which it may find necessary to secure by its own forces the defense of the canal, he says the United States might at any time commit acts clearly inconsistent with the neutral character which it has always been sought to give it, and which would deny the free use of it to the commerce and navies of the world.

He goes on to show that there is no analogy between the tenth article of the Suez canal convention and the Davis amendment, adding:

"The banks of the Suez canal are within the dominions of a territorial sovereign, who was a party to the convention, and whose established interests it was necessary to protect; whereas the Nicaraguan canal will be constructed in territory belonging, not to the United States, but to Central American states, of whose sovereign rights other powers cannot claim to dispose."

Would Discriminate Against England.

Lord Lansdowne states his objections to the amendments which strike out article 3 of the convention, under which the high contracting parties engage, immediately upon the convention being reaffirmed to bring it to the notice of the other powers and to invite their adherence.

"If that adherence were given, the neutrality of the canal would be secured by the whole of the adhering powers; without that adherence it could depend only upon the guarantee of the two contracting powers."

The amendment, Lord Lansdowne thinks, not only removes all prospect of a wider guarantee, but places Great Britain in a position of marked disadvantage compared with other

"If his majesty's government were agreed to such an amendment, while the United States would have a treaty right to interfere with the canal in case of war, or apprehended war, and while other powers could with a clear conscience disregard any of the restrictions imposed by the convention, Great Britain alone, in spite of her enormous possessions on the American continent, and in spite of her Australian colonies and her interests in the east, would be absolutely precluded from resorting to any such action, or from taking measures to secure her interests in and near the canal."

"His majesty's government, throughout these negotiations, has given evidence of their earnest desire to meet the views of the United States. They would on this occasion have been ready to consider in a friendly spirit any amendments of the convention, not inconsistent with the principles accepted by both governments, which the government of the United States might have desired to propose, and they would sincerely regret a failure to come to an amicable understanding in regard to this important subject."

FEAR OF GOLD EXPORTS

Payment on Account of Steel Syndicate, Somewhat Unsettled Loan Market Monday.

New York, March 26.—Monday professional operators led the outside demand very freely during the first hour, so that there was no important advances after the opening, except where some special influence was at work. When the accumulation of buying orders in commission houses had been worked off this profit taking began to get the best of prices and forced a general decline. The effort of the leaders of the speculation during the rest of the day was to make an imposing show of sharp advances in the stocks of minor railroad companies, concerning which plausible reports of consolidation with larger systems could be devised, and of which the capital issue of the floating supply of stock is sufficiently narrow to make possible effective manipulation by speculators of large resources. There were so many of these gains and they were so impressive in extent as to serve very well the purpose of the bull leaders to cover their profit taking movements elsewhere. But the bear operators gained courage as they detected the extent of the profit taking sales, and they made a general attack on the market late in the day, forcing some rather violent declines in the grangers, Pacifics and southwesterns, making the close a very active one and decidedly weak. There were gains of from 1 to 2 points in a number of standard railroad stocks and specialties in the first hour. Texas and Pacific and Ontario and Western being heavily bought for London account. Early weakness developed in the local traction stocks and in Sugar, but it did not immediately effect the whole market. After the large outside demand had been partly satisfied some sharp advances were caused among the junior Vanderbilt stocks, running in some cases up to over 5 points. The Wheeling and Lake Erie stocks were quite prominent, as were Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, the Express company stocks, General Electric, North American, Amalgamated, Copper, Consolidated Gas and a number of minor specialties. The Southern Railway stocks, St. Paul and the Pacifics made a show of strength at one time, and late in the day the Hocking Valley stocks and the Toledo, St. Louis and Western stocks were moved up even after the general market had become distinctly weak. In the late drop Denver and Rio Grande lost 3½, Baratong 3, Wabash preferred 3½, Great Northern preferred 3½, St. Paul over 2 points and a large number of the principal active stocks from 1 to 2 points. The stocks which had been made points of resistance retained part of their gains at the close, although they were materially below the best prices.

Uneasiness was caused by the apparent difficulties ahead of the foreign money markets, incident to the requirements for the coming German and British loans. The upward course of exchange arouses the apprehension that gold may go abroad. The continued drain of the government revenue surplus is also regarded with increasing seriousness, and the speculative contingent does not maintain to the full its expressed confidence that redemption of government bonds will certainly be resorted to to save the stock market from a money pinch. Monday's payment of $25,000,000 on account of the steel syndicate subscription unsettled the loan market to some extent, but there was no notable rise in money rates.

The bond market continued active and reactionary in spots. Wabash debentures broke 3½% from the highest. Total sales, par value, $5,460,000.

United States refunding 2s advanced ½ per cent on the last call.

INSURANCE FOR DRUGGISTS.

Liability For Losses From Mistakes Is Now Provided For.

One of the latest things in the fidelity and casualty line is to insure druggists against what is called the wrong prescription man, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. For $15 or $25 a year several companies guarantee druggists against damages arising from mistakes in compounding drugs.

The idea of insuring druggists against loss from their own mistakes originated in the belief of a number of leading pharmacists that they were the victims of a gang of rogues who made a practice of pretending that wrong medicines had been given to some member of their families, sometimes with serious results. The gang was partly broken up by the fidelity company which first assumed the responsibility of protecting druggists at $5 a year each. An officer of this company says that there are fully 1,000 mistakes a year in the compounding of drugs.

"While there are so many genuine mistakes," he continued, "there are many alleged errors in mixing medicines, and some of the complaints are invented for the sole purpose of extorting money from the retail druggists. Our company guarantees to protect druggists against themselves, but our main desire is to prevent fraud on the part of those who want to blackmail one of our clients for something he has not done."

"It is a serious matter to make a mistake in mixing drugs, but it is frequently even more serious to the druggist to have it noised about that such a mistake was made. I have known chemists to be forced out of business by the publicity given to the fact that they made a blunder. Dishonest persons have recognized the fear that druggists have of an exposure of this kind and have taken advantage of the knowledge.

"Since we undertook to prevent them a number of druggists have confessed to paying big sums to persons who said mistakes were made. I have the name of half a dozen so called doctors who have aided the gang that was engaged in the business of bleeding chemists.

"Still there is nothing really remarkable in this protection of druggists. For instance, we have a special insurance for saloon keepers guaranteeing them against financial loss through being locked up for violation of the excise law."

HORSE CONFINED FOR YEARS

Animal Does Not Know How to Act When Released.

A horse with hoofs abnormally long that has not been out of its stall but once in the last eight years is one of the curiosities in Clinton, Ia. It is the property of William Barenfuss, an eccentric character. It is said Barenfuss is keeping the animal confined in the stall in order to let its hoofs grow, so he can dispose of the horse to some show manager. It is also said Barenfuss is afraid of the horse and does not dare to take it out of the barn.

The horse is a handsome black stallion, and, were it accustomed to the harness, would bring a good price. In its present condition Barenfuss has been offered $200 for the animal, but he turns a deaf ear to all offers.

Eight years ago, when the horse was a year old, it was placed in its present quarters, and but once in all these years has the animal been out of its stall. This was five years ago, when a fire threatened to destroy the barn. Some of the neighbors knocked the door off its hinges and cut the halter, releasing the animal, which was driven out of the barn after considerable difficulty.

When outside, the horse staggered and reeled like an intoxicated person. It had little use of its legs. All objects seemed strange to it, and the light had a blinding effect on the horse's eyes. It had no regard for objects and in trying to enter the barn did not realize that it must go through a door, but attempted to walk through the boards.

Mosquitos, Forest and Fever.

If a frost is the effective agent against the continuance of yellow fever, how has it happened that the fever has ceased in its time at Key West, St. Kitts, Vera Cruz and elsewhere to the south of us, where there is never a frost? As for the mosquito going out of business with the appearance of the frost, that is surely a mistake. The winter following the last appearance of fever here was so mild that the mosquitoes remained in commission until March. The fever, however, disappeared the last week in December.—Mobile Register.

From an Author's Notebook.

The following is an extract from the diary of an impecunious author: "Rose on 5 and had a sonnet and a glass of cold water for breakfast. I retired early in the evening without supper, as I feared the neighbors would be annoyed by the rattling of the knives and forks."—Atlanta Constitution.

His Wife Insisted

And he thought he'd humor her, no doubt. The result shows that a man rarely loses by following his wife's advice. Those who suffer from obstinate cough, bronchitis, weak lungs and ailments in general which tend to consumption, will find speedy relief and perfect cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures ninety-eight per cent of those who give it a fair and faithful trial. It purifies the blood, heals the lungs and builds up the body with firm flesh instead of flabby fat. The "Discovery" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotics.

"Only for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I think I would be in my grave to-day," writes Mr. Moses Miles, of Hilliard, Uinta Co., Wyoming. "I had asthma so bad I could not sleep at night and was compelled to give up work. It affected my lungs so that I coughed all the time, both day and night. My friends all thought I had consumption. My wife had taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it had helped her so much she insisted on my trying his 'Golden Medical Discovery'—which I did. I have taken four bottles and am now a well man, weighing 185 pounds, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I would like you to print this testimony as it may help some other poor sufferer."

A GOOD SCHEME.

Massillon Committee Don't Propose to Grant a Franchise Unless Street Railway is Built.

It is understood that the committee to which was referred the petition for a franchise for the Canton-Massillon Electric Railway company, will recommend granting a franchise for three months, its extension to be contingent upon the work accomplished in that period by the company. The members of the committee say that such action is justifiable, considering the broken promises of the past.

Cheap and Reliable Insurance.

"Some years ago when troubled with a bad cold I was advised by a prominent merchant here to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and having done so, I can say it is the best cough medicine I ever used," says M. "We have for some years kept a bottle of this remedy in the house as an insurance against coughs, colds and croup, and it has never failed to effect a prompt and permanent cure." For sale by Alvin H. REPLY OF ENGLAND

The British Government Desired to Have the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty Stand.

IT WAS AN ACT OF FRIENDSHIP

Such Was Agreement to Modify Treaty—England Would Be Put in Worse Condition Than Other Nations By One Senate Amendment.

Washington, March 26.—The answer of the British government, expressing its inability to accept the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in the form amended by the United States senate, was made public. It is in the form of a communication from Lord Lansdowne, British minister of foreign affairs, to Lord Pauncefote, and asks the latter to read the dispatch to the secretary of state and to leave a copy in his hands. It was in part as follows:

Lord Lansdowne said there was no desire on the part of the British government to change the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. But some of its provisions, he says, had been regarded with disfavor by the government of the United States, and in the president's message of December, 1898, it was urged that the national policy called more imperatively than ever for the control of the projected highway by the government of the United States. Lord Pauncefote made inquiry of the secretary of state as to this attitude of the president. The president wished to have the treaty modified by friendly negotiations. Later the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was framed.

Accepted as Proof of Friendship.

Later the introduction of the Nicaragua canal bill in congress revived attention to the treaty, and it was accepted. Lord Lansdowne saying: "Her majesty's government, after due consideration, determined to accept the convention unconditionally, as a signal proof of their friendly disposition and of their desire not to impede the execution of a project declared to be of national importance to the people of the United States."

Lord Lansdowne then discusses and denies the right of the United States to annul the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

Lord Lansdowne further along considers the senate amendments and points out formidable difficulties.

Lord Lansdowne shows that under article I of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty the two parties agreed that neither would occupy or fortify or colonize, or assume or exercise any dominion over any part of Central America, nor attain any of the foregoing objects by alliance with any state or people of Central America. There is no similar agreement in the convention. If, therefore, the treaty were wholly abrogated, both powers would, except in the vicinity of the canal, recover entire freedom of action in Central America. This change, he thinks, would certainly be of advantage to the United States, and might be of substantial importance.

The other two amendments, in the opinion of Lord Lansdowne, present more formidable difficulties. The first of them—the so-called Davis amendment, which reserves to the United States the right of taking any measures which it may find necessary to secure by its own forces the defense of the canal, he says the United States might at any time commit acts clearly inconsistent with the neutral character which it has always been sought to give it, and which would deny the free use of it to the commerce and navies of the world.

He goes on to show that there is no analogy between the tenth article of the Suez canal convention and the Davis amendment, adding:

"The banks of the Suez canal are within the dominions of a territorial sovereign, who was a party to the convention, and whose established interests it was necessary to protect; whereas the Nicaraguan canal will be constructed in territory belonging not to the United States, but to Central American states, of whose sovereign rights other powers cannot claim to dispose."

Would Discriminate Against England.

Lord Lansdowne states his objections to the amendments which strike out article 3 of the convention, under which the high contracting parties engage, immediately upon the convention being reaffirmed to bring it to the notice of the other powers and to invite their adherence.

"If that adherence were given, the neutrality of the canal would be secured by the whole of the adhering powers, without that adherence it could depend only upon the guarantee of the two contracting powers." The amendment, Lord Lansdowne thinks, not only removes all prospect of the wider guarantee, but places Great Britain in a position of marked disadvantage compared with other powers.

"If his majesty's government were to agree to such an amendment, while the United States would have a treaty right to interfere with the canal in time of war, or apprehended war, while other powers could with a clear conscience disregard any of the restrictions imposed by the convention, Great Britain alone, in spite of her enormous possessions on the American continent, and in spite of her Australian colonies and her interests in the east, would be absolutely precluded from resorting to any such action, or from taking measures to secure her interests in and near the canal."

"His majesty's government, throughout these negotiations, has given evidence of their earnest desire to meet the views of the United States. They would on this occasion have been ready to consider in a friendly spirit any amendments of the convention, not inconsistent with the principles accepted by both governments, which the government of the United States might have desired to propose, and they would sincerely regret a failure to come to an amicable understanding in regard to this important subject."

FEAR OF GOLD EXPORTS

Payment on Account of Steel Syndicate, Somewhat Unsettled Loan Market Monday.

New York, March 26.—Monday professional operators led the outside demand very freely during the first hour, so that there was no important advances after the opening, except where some special influence was at work. When the accumulation of buying orders in commission houses had been worked off this profit taking began to get the best of prices and forced a general decline. The effort of the leaders of the speculation during the rest of the day was to make an imposing show of sharp advances in the stocks of minor railroad companies, concerning which plausible reports of consolidation with larger systems could be devised, and of which the capital issue of the floating supply of stock is sufficiently narrow to make possible effective manipulation by speculators of large resources. There were so many of these gains and they were so impressive in extent as to serve very well the purpose of the bull leaders to cover their profit taking movements elsewhere. But the bear operators gained courage as they detected the extent of the profit taking sales, and they made a general attack on the market late in the day, forcing some rather violent declines in the grangers, Pacifics and southwesterns, making the close a very active one and decidedly weak. There were gains of from 1 to 2 points in a number of standard railroad stocks and specialties in the first hour, Texas and Pacific and Ontario and Western being heavily bought for London account. Early weakness developed in the local traction stocks and in Sugar, but it did not immediately effect the whole market. After the large outside demand had been partly satisfied some sharp advances were caused among the junior Vanderbilt stocks, running in some cases up to over 5 points. The Wheeling and Lake Erie stocks were quite prominent, as were Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, the Express company stocks, General Electric, North American, Amalgamated Copper, Consolidated Gas and a number of minor specialties. The Southern Railway stocks, St. Paul and the Pacifics made a show of strength at one time, and late in the day the Hocking Valley stocks and the Toledo, St. Louis and Western stocks were moved up even after the general market had become distinctly weak. In the late drop Denver and Rio Grande lost 3½, Burlington 3, Wabash preferred 3½, Great Northern preferred 3½, St. Paul over 2 points and a large number of the principal active stocks from 1 to 2 points. The stocks which had been made points of resistance retained part of their gains at the close, although they were materially below the best prices.

Uneasiness was caused by the apparent difficulties ahead of the foreign money markets, incident to the requirements for the coming German and British loans. The upward course of exchange arouses the apprehension that gold may go abroad. The continued drain of the government revenue surplus is also regarded with increasing seriousness, and the speculative contingent does not maintain to the full its expressed confidence that redemption of government bonds will certainly be resorted to to save the stock market from a money pinch. Monday's payment of $25,000,000 on account of the steel syndicate subscription unsettled the loan market to some extent, but there was no notable rise in money rates.

The bond market continued active and reactionary in spots. Wabash debentures broke 3½ from the highest. Total sales, par value, $5,460,000.

United States refunding 2s advanced ½ per cent on the last call.

INSURANCE FOR DRUGGISTS.

Liability For Losses From Mistakes Is Now Provided For.

One of the latest things in the fidelity and casualty line is to insure druggists against what is called the wrong prescription man, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. For $15 or $25 a year several companies guarantee druggists against damages arising from mistakes in compounding drugs.

The idea of insuring druggists against loss from their own mistakes originated in the belief of a number of leading pharmacists that they were the victims of a gang of rogues who made a practice of pretending that wrong medicines had been given to some member of their families, sometimes with serious results. The gang was partly broken up by the fidelity company which first assumed the responsibility of protecting druggists at $5 a year each. An officer of this company says that there are fully 1,000 mistakes a year in the compounding of drugs.

"While there are so many genuine mistakes," he continued, "there are many alleged errors in mixing medicines, and some of the complaints are invented for the sole purpose of extorting money from the retail druggists. Our company guarantees to protect druggists against themselves, but our main desire is to prevent fraud on the part of those who want to blackmail one of our clients for something he has not done.

"It is a serious matter to make a mistake in mixing drugs, but it is frequently even more serious to the druggist to have it noised about that such a mistake was made. I have known chemists to be forced out of business by the publicity given to the fact that they made a blunder. Dishonest persons have recognized the fear that druggists have of an exposure of this kind and have taken advantage of the knowledge.

"Since we undertook to prevent them a number of druggists have confessed to paying big sums to persons who said mistakes were made. I have the name of half a dozen so called doctors who have aided the gang that was engaged in the business of bleeding chemists.

"Still there is nothing really remarkable in this protection of druggists. For instance, we have a special insurance for saloon keepers guaranteeing them against financial loss through being locked up for violation of the excise law."

HORSE CONFINED FOR YEARS

Animal Does Not Know How to Act When Released.

A horse with hoofs abnormally long that has not been out of its stall but once in the last eight years is one of the curiosities in Clinton, Ia. It is the property of William Barenfuss, an eccentric character. It is said Barenfuss is keeping the animal confined in the stall in order to let its hoofs grow, so he can dispose of the horse to some show manager. It is also said Barenfuss is afraid of the horse and does not dare to take it out of the barn.

The horse is a handsome black stallion and, were it accustomed to the harness, would bring a good price. In its present condition Barenfuss has been offered $200 for the animal, but he turns a deaf ear to all offers.

Eight years ago, when the horse was a year old, it was placed in its present quarters, and but once in all these years has the animal been out of its stall. This was five years ago, when a fire threatened to destroy the barn. Some of the neighbors knocked the door off its hinges and cut the halter, releasing the animal, which was driven out of the barn after considerable difficulty.

When outside, the horse staggered and reeled like an intoxicated person. It had little use of its legs. All objects seemed strange to it, and the light had a blinding effect on the horse's eyes. It had no regard for objects and in trying to enter the barn did not realize that it must go through a door, but attempted to walk through the boards.

Mosquitoes, Forest and Fever.

If a frost is the effective agent against the continuance of yellow fever, how has it happened that the fever has ceased in its time at Key West, St. Kitts, Vera Cruz and elsewhere to the south of us, where there is never a frost? As for the mosquito going out of business with the appearance of the frost, that is surely a mistake. The winter following the last appearance of fever here was so mild that the mosquitoes remained in commission until March. The fever, however, disappeared the last week in December.—Mobile Register.

From an Author's Notebook.

The following is an extract from the diary of an impecunious author: "Rose at 5 and had a sonnet and a glass of cold water for breakfast. I retired early in the evening without supper, as I feared the neighbors would be annoyed by the rattling of the knives and forks."—Atlanta Constitution.

Trimming Her Sails a Bit.

His Wife Insisted

And he thought he'd humor her, no doubt. The result shows that a man rarely loses by following his wife's advice. Those who suffer from obstinate cough, bronchitis, weak lungs and ailments in general which tend to consumption, will find speedy relief and perfect cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures ninety-eight per cent of those who give it a fair and faithful trial. It purifies the blood, heals the lungs and builds up the body with firm flesh instead of flabby fat. The "Discovery" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotics.

"Only for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, I think I would be in my grave to-day," writes Mr. Moses Miles, of Hilliard, Uinta Co., Wyoming. "I had asthma so bad I could not sleep at night and was compelled to give up work. It affected my lungs so that I coughed all the time, both day and night. My friends all thought I had consumption. My wife had taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it had helped her so much she insisted on my trying his 'Golden Medical Discovery'—which I did. I have taken four bottles and am now a well man, weighing 185 pounds, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I would like you to print this testimony as it may help some other poor sufferer."

A GOOD SCHEME.

Massillon Committee Don't Propose to Grant a Franchise Unless Street Railway is Built.

It is understood that the committee to which was referred the petition for a franchise for the Canton-Massillon Electric Railway company, will recommend granting a franchise for three months, its extension to be contingent upon the work accomplished in that period by the company. The members of the committee say that such action is justifiable, considering the broken promises of the past.

Cheap and Reliable Insurance.

"Some years ago when troubled with a bad cold I was advised by a prominent merchant here to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and having done so, I can say it is the best cough medicine I ever used," says M. S. West, of West Burlington, N. Y. "We have for some years kept a bottle of this remedy in the house as an insurance against coughs, colds and croup, and it has never failed to effect a prompt and permanent cure." For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

EXPERIENCES OF CANDIDATES IN THE RECENT CAMPAIGN.

A VARIETY OF ODD AND INTERESTING STORIES PICKED UP BY REPORTERS.

Many amusing stories are told in regard to the county primary election and campaign which has just closed.

He was standing in front of the first precinct of the Fourth ward and was slightly under the influence of liquor, when a ward healer approached him and asked him if he had voted. He replied that he had not and did not propose to vote, as he could not see why he didn't get some money out of the candidates, as he was willing to work for anybody, provided he was paid for it. The ward healer gave him a drink and the kicker voted at once.

In the county campaign which has just closed two candidates met at a hotel in a small town in the county. It did not take them long to discover there were no beds to be secured in the house, and one candidate took off his shoes and seated himself in an arm chair in front of the old fashioned stove, while the other made his bed on a table. During the night the man on the table awakened and heard the candidate who had the chair mutter in his sleep: "Thieves, they would rob a man."

Sunday evening Donald Monday, who is employed as a driver by a grocery store on Market street, entered the restaurant of T. F. Manley on Sixth street having a sign reading: "T. F. Manley, Sixth street, East Liverpool, O." When asked in regard to the sign he said he had got lost in Wellsville, and running across a friend he had pinned the sign on him and put him on a car bound for this city. He is now being asked by his friends if he ever was in the city of Wellsville before, and in what part he got lost.

A theory is now advanced by a scientist, it is said, that there are no more reliable weather prophets than telegraph wires. This novel discovery was made by him in the following manner: As he was waiting for a train at a country station he heard the shrill sound, which was made by the wind as it passed through a network of nearby wires. At once the doctor remembered that he had frequently heard a similar sound either immediately before or after a storm or a heavy fall of rain or snow and it naturally occurred to him to try and ascertain whether there was any connection between the sound and such changes in the weather.

As a heavy shower of rain fell within 48 hours after he had heard the sound at the railroad station, he concluded that there was such a connection, and he then determined to investigate the matter thoroughly. As a result he now maintains, first, that any unusual disturbance in the telegraph wires is an infallible indicator of bad weather, and, second, that the nature of the changes in the atmosphere may be learned from the sound which the wind makes when passing through the wires.

Thus a double sound, he says, which is of considerable or medium strength, indicates that there will be slight showers of rain with moderate winds within from 30 to 48 hours, and, on the other hand, a sharp, shrill sound is the sure token of a heavy storm, which will be accompanied by much rain or snow.

GOOD WORDS FOR NEWS REVIEW.

The Evening News Review, of East Liverpool, issued an election extra at 11 o'clock Saturday night containing the complete result of the vote in Columbian county. The News Review, under the new management, has become an enterprising and thoroughly up-to-date journal, and its efforts to give all the home news are appreciated by its patrons, as is evidenced by its rapidly increasing subscription list and increased advertising patronage.—Toronto Tribune.

NEW OIL COMPANY.

Thomas J. Hern, of Allegheny; Charles D. Hobbs, of Pittsburg, and Jasper Smith, of New Cumberland, met local capitalists at the Windsor hotel, Toronto, on Saturday evening, when a company to be known as the Hobbs Oil company was formed. The company proposes to drill wells on the Columbus Hobbs leases near New Cumberland.

A LEPER GOVERNMENT.

VICTIMS ON MOLOKAI TO HAVE THEIR OWN MUNICIPALITY.

As a result of an official trip to the leper settlement on Molokai island, native members of the Honolulu legislature announce their intention of giving local self government to the lepers. They will receive the authority to conduct the settlement as they see fit.

They propose that it be organized on the plan of a municipality. The lepers will elect a board of aldermen, a mayor, a justice of the peace, police officers and all other officials necessary to running a miniature city.

The management of the lepers has been in the hands of an agent of the board of health, who had complete supervision of the leper settlement, which is on a peninsula, about six miles long and three miles wide, on the northern coast of Molokai island. Generally the lepers have been satisfied with their life, but numerous complaints were made recently to the legislative committees about the scarcity of food and the details of management.

The lepers were assured that by next July they will have entire management themselves and can attend to every detail. Taro root, from which is manufactured poi, the most essential food for the lepers, will be raised in quantity by the lepers after self government is inaugurated. Other supplies which cannot be raised on the island will be sent over by the board of health, which will still maintain practically an executive supervision over the lepers.

Lepers will take charge of these goods and will arrange for their disposition to members of the settlement. There is scarcely a resident in the settlement who is not terribly disfigured with the disease.

One of the most prominent members of the settlement, who has lived there 22 years, said he did not believe self government could be put into execution, for there were not enough well men to assume the reins of government. Those who were well enough now were apt to become ill at any time. There are now about 900 lepers of both sexes in the settlement. The movement meets with almost unanimous approval from them.

VEGETABLES AND TYPHOID.

VEGETABLE CHEMIST SAYS GERMS LURK IN RAW GARDEN TRUCK.

Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, has for the last few years been making a thorough study of the close connection between typhoid and other germ diseases and the consumption of raw vegetables and has come to the conclusion that to their use when they are grown near large cities may often be traced the prevalence of these diseases at certain seasons. His study of the matter has not only extended over many years, but to many foreign cities, chief among them Paris and Berlin. In speaking of the matter he said:

"I quite agree with Professor Gauldin, chief of the bureau of hygiene of Rome, and other eminent students of the subject, who trace typhoid fever more directly to the consumption of raw vegetables than to any other source.

Of course the use of polluted water as well as a carelessly guarded milk supply are both dangerous factors, but do not account completely for the prevalence of the disease in localities where these supplies are both closely watched and the sanitary conditions are beyond reproach.

The cause of the danger in uneaten vegetables lies in the fact of truck gardeners near large cities depending often upon sewer waste, household refuse, street sweepings and other such matter as fertilizers for their fields. This is especially the case about Paris. Such a use of waste matter for this purpose is particularly dangerous if contaminated with pathogenic germs, and this waste matter should in such cases, if used at all, be under the supervision of the board of health, and should be sterilized either by subjection to a high temperature or by the use of oil of vitriol in sufficient quantities to be germicidal."

Thus a double sound, he says, which is of considerable or medium strength, indicates that there will be slight showers of rain with moderate winds within from 30 to 48 hours, and, on the other hand, a sharp, shrill sound is the sure token of a heavy storm, which will be accompanied by much rain or snow.

$500 FOR A PAUL REVERE BELL.

Anybody with $500 who wants a big church bell that has rung out for over a century in Boston and which was cast by Paul Revere can have it by paying the money to the trustees of the First Methodist Episcopal church of that city. The bell is now stored in a leather warehouse on South street awaiting a buyer. It has a history, for it used to summon the people of the old north end to worship when it was the "court part" of the town. It was in the tower of the old First church and bears this inscription: "The First church. Cast in Boston in 1792 by Paul Revere."

When a second and later a third First church were built on Hanover street, the bell took its place successively in the towers. At the time the First church moved to Berkeley and Marlboro streets the bell went with it. In 1854 the church on Marlboro street was torn down because of the widening of the street, and since then the bell has been in the loft.

The largest sponge ever sent to market was from the Mediterranean. It was ten feet in circumference and three in diameter.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

EXPERIENCES OF CANDIDATES IN THE RECENT CAMPAIGN.

A Variety of Odd And Interesting Stories Picked Up By Reporters.

Many amusing stories are told in regard to the county primary election and campaign which has just closed.

He was standing in front of the first precinct of the Fourth ward and was slightly under the influence of liquor, when a ward healer approached him and asked him if he had voted. He replied that he had not and did not propose to vote, as he could not see why he didn't get some money out of the candidates, as he was willing to work for anybody, provided he was paid for it. The ward healer gave him a drink and the kicker voted at once.

In the county campaign which has just closed two candidates met at a hotel in a small town in the county. It did not take them long to discover there were no beds to be secured in the house, and one candidate took off his shoes and seated himself in an arm chair in front of the old fashioned stove, while the other made his bed on a table. During the night the man on the table awakened and heard the candidate who had the chair mutter in his sleep: "Thieves, they would rob a man."

Sunday evening Donald Monday, who is employed as a driver by a grocery store on Market street, entered the restaurant of T. F. Manley on Sixth street having a sign reading: "T. F. Manley, Sixth street, East Liverpool, O." When asked in regard to the sign he said he had got lost in Wellsville, and running across a friend he had pinned the sign on him and put him on a car bound for this city. He is now being asked by his friends if he ever was in the city of Wellsville before, and in what part he got lost.

A theory is now advanced by a scientist, it is said, that there are no more reliable weather prophets than telegraph wires. This novel discovery was made by him in the following manner: As he was waiting for a train at a country station he heard the shrill sound, which was made by the wind as it passed through a network of nearby wires. At once the doctor remembered that he had frequently heard a similar sound either immediately before or after a storm or a heavy fall of rain or snow and it naturally occurred to him to try and ascertain whether there was any connection between the sound and such changes in the weather.

As a heavy shower of rain fell within 48 hours after he had heard the sound at the railroad station, he concluded that there was such a connection, and he then determined to investigate the matter thoroughly. As a result he now maintains, first, that any unusual disturbance in the telegraph wires is an infallible indicator of bad weather, and, second, that the nature of the changes in the atmosphere may be learned from the sound which the wind makes when passing through the wires.

Thus a double sound, he says, which is of considerable or medium strength, indicates that there will be slight showers of rain with moderate winds within from 30 to 48 hours, and, on the other hand, a sharp, shrill sound is the sure token of a heavy storm, which will be accompanied by much rain or snow.

A LEPER GOVERNMENT.

Victims on Molokai to Have Their Own Municipality.

As a result of an official trip to the leper settlement on Molokai island, native members of the Honolulu legislature announce their intention of giving local self government to the lepers. They will receive the authority to conduct the settlement as they see fit.

They propose that it be organized on the plan of a municipality. The lepers will elect a board of aldermen, a mayor, a justice of the peace, police officers and all other officials necessary to running a miniature city.

The management of the lepers has been in the hands of an agent of the board of health, who had complete supervision of the leper settlement, which is on a peninsula, about six miles long and three miles wide, on the northern coast of Molokai island. Generally the lepers have been satisfied with their life, but numerous complaints were made recently to the legislative committees about the scarcity of food and the details of management.

The lepers were assured that by next July they will have entire management themselves and can attend to every detail. Taro root, from which is manufactured poi, the most essential food for the lepers, will be raised in quantity by the lepers after self government is inaugurated. Other supplies which cannot be raised on the island will be sent over by the board of health, which will still maintain practically an executive supervision over the lepers.

Lepers will take charge of these goods and will arrange for their disposition to members of the settlement. There is scarcely a resident in the settlement who is not terribly disfigured with the disease.

One of the most prominent members of the settlement, who has lived there 22 years, said he did not believe self government could be put into execution, for there were not enough well men to assume the reins of government. Those who were well enough now were apt to become ill at any time. There are now about 900 lepers of both sexes in the settlement. The movement meets with almost unanimous approval from them.

VEGETABLES AND TYPHOID.

Vegetable Chemist Says Germs Lurk In Raw Garden Truck.

Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, has for the last few years been making a thorough study of the close connection between typhoid and other germ diseases and the consumption of raw vegetables and has come to the conclusion that to their use when they are grown near large cities may often be traced the prevalence of these diseases at certain seasons. His study of the matter has not only extended over many years, but to many foreign cities, chief among them Paris and Berlin. In speaking of the matter he said:

"I quite agree with Professor Gauldi, chief of the Bureau of hygiene of Rome, and other eminent students of the subject, who trace typhoid fever more directly to the consumption of raw vegetables than to any other source. Of course the use of polluted water as well as a carelessly guarded milk supply are both dangerous factors, but do not account completely for the prevalence of the disease in localities where these supplies are both closely watched and the sanitary conditions are beyond reproach.

"The cause of the danger in uneaten vegetables lies in the fact of truck gardeners near large cities depending often upon sewer waste, household refuse, street sweepings and other such matter as fertilizers for their fields. This is especially the case about Paris. Such use of waste matter for this purpose is particularly dangerous if contaminated with pathogenic germs, and this waste matter should in such cases, if used at all, be under the supervision of the board of health, and should be sterilized either by subjection to a high temperature or by the use of oil of vitriol in sufficient quantities to be germicidal."

$500 For a Paul Revere Bell.

Anybody with $500 who wants a big church bell that has rung out for over a century in Boston and which was cast by Paul Revere can have it by paying the money to the trustees of the First Methodist Episcopal church of that city. The bell is now stored in a leather warehouse on South street awaiting a buyer. It has a history, for it used to summon the people of the old north end to worship when it was the "court part" of the town. It was in the tower of the old First church and bears this inscription: "The First church, cast in Boston in 1792 by Paul Revere." When a second and later a third First church were built on Hanover street, the bell took its place successively in the towers. At the time the First church moved to Berkeley and Marlboro streets the bell went with it. In 1854 the church on Marlboro street was torn down because of the widening of the street, and since then the bell has been in the loft.

TWO CENTS

THE COUNTY CONVENTION A BUSINESS-LIKE BODY

McKinley Administration, Gov. Nash, Senators Hanna and Foraker and Hon. R. W. Taylor Praised In Resolutions.

NEW RULES FOR REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

A Code Proposed by Judge Smith With the Object of Removing Several Grounds of Complaint—Columbiana County Delegations Instructed For Cameron For Treasurer, Harter For Judge, Archer and Connell For Senators.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lisbon, March 26.—The Republican county convention met at about 10 o'clock this morning and held a well-attended and business-like session. Judge J. G. Moore was made chairman and Ed A. King secretary.

Chairman I. B. Cameron introduced resolutions which were enthusiastically and unanimously adopted. These spoke in unstinted praise of the wise and patriotic administration of President McKinley; commended the course in congress of Senators Foraker and Hanna and Representative R. W. Taylor in the strongest terms and also the administration of Governor Nash and the other state officers. Mr. Taylor, who was present, offered an amendment commending the administration of Hon. I. B. Cameron as state treasurer and instructing the Columbiana county delegation to support him as a candidate for that office for another term. The resolution was approved unanimously.

J. A. Martin offered a resolution indorsing Henry W. Harter, of Canton, as a candidate for common pleas judge in this district and instructing the Columbiana county delegates to vote for him in convention.

This resolution having passed, L. P. Farr offered another, indorsing the candidacy of C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, who received a unanimous vote at the primaries, for state senator. The 103 delegates of this county were instructed to support Mr. Connell at the coming senatorial convention at Steubenville. The resolution was approved, after being so amended as to give the delegation power to fill all vacancies in its membership.

State Treasurer Cameron moved that all candidates having no opposition at the primaries be given a full vote. Carried.

C. C. Connell offered a resolution strongly praising the course pursued by State Senator Archer, of this district, and Representative Samuel Buell in the legislature and pledging them the county's support next fall. Both resolutions were unanimously approved.

A committee of three was then appointed to select delegates to the coming state convention. It consists of J. N. Hanley, of East Liverpool; R. N. Chamberlain, of East Palestine, and J. A. Martin, of Lisbon.

Judge P. M. Smith next took up the important matter of a change in the rules governing county primaries. In a vigorous speech he pointed out the various reasons why changes in the rules were needed. He offered a new code of rules and made a strong speech in favor of their adoption. Judge Smith cited the fact that his home town of Wellsville had suffered much through the action of the central committeemen there. He said the fact that there was a Democratic mayor of Wellsville at the present time was the fault of disgruntled committeemen in the Republican party. The changes proposed by Judge Smith include these, among others:

The county primaries in the different precincts shall be conducted by the central committeeman for that precinct. In case of a vacancy the candidates shall select the man to serve. This, it is believed, will be the fairest method and most satisfactory to all interested.

No candidate shall be permitted to serve as an election officer at the primaries. Representatives of each candidate on the ticket shall be allowed to select a watcher to witness both balloting and the counting.

Another regulation is that any candidate who is dissatisfied after the

Served During the Rebellion As a Spy
in the Confederate Army And Lost
an Eye in the War—Coates Sold
His Valuable Silk Hat.

Dave Farrell will get a trip to the Canton workhouse and it will be several months before he again bothers the police force of this city. Farrell has been in jail on numerous accusations and seems to have a mania for getting drunk. He was released from the city jail yesterday afternoon and last night was found lying in a cellarway at the foot of Broadway. Officer Aufderheide placed him under arrest and Mayor Davidson fined him $34.60 this morning.

Prof. L. C. Slater, of West Virginia, was arrested by Officer Gill. Slater is a veteran of the rebellion and served as a Confederate spy, having one eye shot out. He had a recommendation from parties in Barnesville and said he was a vocalist and reader of no mean ability. The mayor had him recite a poem and then gave him an hour to get out of town.

T. J. Cherry was an ordinary drunk and Officers Mahoney and Dawson placed him under arrest. He was given $5.60.

George W. Braden was arrested by Officer Dawson and a charge of vagrancy placed against him. Braden was asleep on the sidewalk on Market street. He wants to go to the infirmary, but the mayor may give him a chance to go to the works.

William Dray, of Jethro, was drunk last night and Officer Morris arrested him. He will be given a hearing to-night.

When Thomas Coates, of Allegheny, arrived in this city he wore a plug hat and was on top of the heap. Officer Davidson found him drunk last night and took him to the city hall. His plug hat was gone and he was the proud possessor of a cheap one. Coates says he sold his plug hat. Mayor Davidson will give him a hearing this afternoon.

Pat Mooney was taken to the works this morning, and will spend some time at that institution.

St. Petersburg, March 26.—(Special)—All sorts of reports today are current concerning plots against the imperial family and other high officials. The latest, based apparently on reliable information, is that mines have been discovered beneath the czar's palace at Tzarskoye Selo.

Prominent Russians are accused and sensational arrests are likely at any time. Already there are numerous suspects under arrest or surveillance for alleged connection with other recent plots.

POTTERY SUPPLIES.

NEW FACTORY TO MANUFAC-TURE THEM ASSURED.

Edward Scott Says the Establishment
Will Soon Be in Operation.

Before many weeks pass East Liverpool will have another factory added to its already long list, B. M. Louthan and Edward Scott being the gentlemen who will erect a pottery supply works in this city.

A site has been secured at the foot of Franklin street on the property where the house which was recently occupied by the Lichenstein family and which was destroyed by fire, stood. When seen in regard to the matter this morning Mr. Scott said:

"Yes, it is true that Mr. Louthan and myself intend to erect a supply works on Franklin street. The plant will be 130x60 feet and will be of the most modern improvement. The plans for the building are now being prepared, and we expect to commence the foundation in a few days. I was out of the city this morning looking at a boiler and engine.

"The machinery to be used in the factory will be made in this city, and will be in readiness to be placed in position as soon as the building is completed. We expect to have the plant in operation in a very short time, and the story published in a local paper a short time ago in regard to the plant was untrue."

WRECK TRAIN CALLED.

Green Goods Men Flooding the City With Their Circulars to Catch Suckers.

BAIT LAID TO TRAP THE FOOLISH

Eastern Swindlers Seem to Think East
Liverpool People Do Not Read the Papers or Understand Their Plan of Operations.

A number of residents of the city have in the last few weeks received letters from green goods men who offer them very heavy inducements to purchase spurious money.

The green goods men claim to have secured a plate from the mint at Philadelphia and to be now turning out imitation money which cannot be detected from the real stuff. Newspaper clippings calling attention to the fact that the mint had lost the plate, giving a glaring account of the secret service men on the trail and telling what the government may lose by the transaction are enclosed in the letter.

For the small sum of $1 the green goods men offer to send $500 worth of the stuff to any person in the United States.

A number of the people who received letters here turned them over to Postmaster Surles, who consigned them to the waste basket, as the department is overrun with letters of this kind.

There may be a few people in this city who will be caught by the offer, but they will be few and far apart.

It is the same old game. The clippings are bogus, merely photographic reproductions of matter which was put into type but never appeared in any newspaper. The greenhorn who is so foolish as to deal with the sharpers will of course lose his good money, getting either sawdust or waste paper in return for it. The "green goods" men have no green goods to deal in. They fool themselves if they think East Liverpool don't read the papers and understand their game.

BIG COMBINE.

Merchant Blast Furnaces to Be Merged in One Huge Corporation.

Sharon, Pa., March 26.—It is definitely settled that all merchant blast furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys and several in the Cleveland and Pittsburgh districts will be merged into one corporation with a capital of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. The combined weekly output of the plants optioned is over 50,000 tons. It is to be a combination of the blast furnaces making what is classed as merchant iron, as distinguished from the furnaces that make pig iron for the steel mills, which contract for their entire output from year to year.

So far about one-half of the furnaces that are to be included in the new combination are under option.

TO SPEND $500,000.

Big Hard Rubber Plant to Be Built at Akron.

Akron, March 26.—Local and eastern capital are interested in the People's Hard Rubber company, incorporated at Columbus for $200,000 yesterday. This capitalization is nominal. About $500,000 is to be spent on a large rubber plant in Akron.

There are now no hard rubber companies outside of the American Hard Rubber company. Musser & Kohler, local attorneys, filed the papers, but the names of those back of the project are not announced.

Peddler's Pack Stolen.

Salem, March 26.—Oar Kline, an itinerant Hebrew peddler who put up in this city over Sunday, was robbed of two packs, which, he says, contained in the aggregate about $65 worth of the goods he handles. The case was reported to the police.

EAST END.

SMITH IN TROUBLE.

A Smith's Ferry Man Makes Trouble in a Pottery And is Warned Out of Town.

James Smith, of Smith's Ferry, is in trouble again. He has become a genuine nuisance about both the East End and in the city proper, and the police have grown tired of him. From present indications it seems highly probable that he will find his way into the city prison at his next visit to this city.

Yesterday Jim entered an East End pottery and indulged in some ungentlemanly talk to one of the ladies. One of the men invited him to leave the shop and when he refused to go assisted him out in a somewhat ungentle manner. The pottery worker alleged that Smith called him bad names and says he cannot stand it to be insulted by such a man. Smith came to the East End fire station and wanted the man arrested.

Officer Terrence questioned him and Smith admitted that he had called the other man bad names, too; and as he was guilty of trespassing, Mr. Terrence advised him to leave the town at once. Smith did not seem disposed to take his advice until it became apparent that he might be wanted at police headquarters, when he left in a hurry.

The pottery officials are likely to have Smith landed in jail the next time he visits here.

SEVERELY SHOCKED.

Martin Elliott Found Out What Was the Matter With the Telephone Wires.

The electric light wire near Arnold's corner fell across a Columbian telephone wire last night and charged several phones near there.

The telephone in Martin Elliott's shop began to whirr in a very unusual manner. Mr. Elliott started to call up central to learn what was the matter. He took down the receiver and had it just about to his ear when he received a shock that almost stunned him. It seems that he had placed his right hand on the bell to stop the noise. He found out what was the matter without calling central.

After Mr. Elliott recovered from his tingling experience he went to another 'phone and notified the company. The wires were disconnected a few minutes later.

EAST END GOSSIP.

John Smith is papering his barber shop.

Work on the improvements at the brick yard are progressing rapidly.

John Arnold is again confined to the house, suffering from an attack of grip.

John Smith has returned from Steubenville, where he assisted in the organization of a Masonic lodge.

Miss Ida Betz, who has been working at George McKinnon's restaurant, left for Canton, O., this morning.

Raising the Fee.

In that particular year it happened that the national political convention of which we are speaking was held in some other town than Chicago, and the place was crowded.

This is how it came to pass that Colonel Hankthunder, who went merely as a prominent citizen of the republic and had not taken the precaution to engage a room beforehand, found himself shut out of the hotels and compelled to choose lodgings from a list of eligible private dwellings.

The woman of the house near the corner of Fish street and Potato avenue, the first residence at which he called, showed him the only room she had to spare.

"That suits me, ma'am," he said. "How much will it cost me for board and lodging here for the next four days?"

"Well," she answered, "this is not a regular boarding house, and I am only taking boarders because I want to educate my boy for a lawyer. I shall have to charge you $6 for the four days."

"Madam," loftily rejoined the colonel, taking out his pocketbook, "you will never educate your boy for a lawyer by giving such an example as that. I will pay you $10."—Chicago Tribune.

The following tow-boats passed this city yesterday and today: Down—John Moren, Wilmot. Up—Enterprise, Dick Fulton, Clifton and Mariner.

LANDMARK GOING.

The Old McGinley Homestead to Be Replaced By a Big Modern Dwelling.

Dr. C. B. Ogdin is having plans drawn for a 16-room brick dwelling for two families to be erected on his lot at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets. W. A. Calhoun is the architect.

The old house, still standing on the lot, is known as the Patrick McGinley homestead, and is one of the oldest houses on the hill. It has been unoccupied for about a year and has served mainly as a place for posting bills. The old house has long been considered an eyesore by the neighbors, who will not be disappointed to see the ancient landmark disappear.

PLAQUE OF DEVILFISH.

English Channel Invaded by Hordes of Octopi.

A plague as horrid in its way as any of those from which the ancient Egyptians suffered has assailed the south coast of England.

Countless hordes of octopi—the devil-fishes of Victor Hugo—have invaded the English channel and have swarmed along the shores of Devon and Cornwall in tremendous numbers. Traveling about in marauding armies, they have well nigh destroyed the local lobster and crab fisheries by devouring these crustaceans wholesale.

On the French side of the strait, especially in the department of Finisterre, they are thrown up on the beaches by the sea after storms in such quantities that their loathsome bodies have been gathered up and removed by hundreds of cartloads to prevent them from endangering the public health by rotting.

Many of these creatures have a spread of six feet or more, the tentacles being three feet in length and covered with suckers as big as 50 cent pieces. But specimens have been seen very much greater in size, and individuals are known sometimes to attain a measurement of 16 feet from arm tip to arm tip. That the larger ones will readily attack human beings is well known, the sucking disks with which the arms are provided holding the victim with an irresistible force. Once fairly embraced by the animal there is small chance for the strongest man, unless he is lucky enough to have a big knife or a spear.

The most surprising point about the plague referred to is that the octopus has rarely been seen hitherto in British waters—so rarely, indeed, that during many years past specimens could be obtained for aquaria in England only at long intervals, and half a sovereign was frequently paid for a small one alive. It is very numerous in the Mediterranean and ranges as far north as the south side of the English channel, which is its extreme limit ordinarily.

SICK MAN GROWS FOUR INCHES.

Robert King of Islip, N. Y., bids fair to be the tallest man in Suffolk. During the past few weeks he has grown four inches, and his height is now the talk of the town. King, who is 19 years of age, was taken ill with a fever some weeks ago. Before being taken ill he measured 5 feet 10 inches, and his present height is 6 feet 2 inches. His increased length was noticed when it was discovered that the bed was not long enough to allow him to lie stretched at full length. He was accordingly measured, and to the surprise of those who had been at his bedside during his illness it was found he had grown. It is supposed that the growth is due to the muscles relaxing. Unless the muscles contract upon his recovery he will be obliged to have a bedstead made to order.

Heat of the Stars.

Experiments at the Yerkes observatory have led to certain results on the heat of the stars that may be summarized as follows: The apparatus employed was sensitive enough to register the heat received from a candle 15 miles distant. The heat received from Arcturus was equivalent to the heat received from a candle at a distance of about six miles.

DILEMMA OF JAPAN

Will That Nation Engage In War
With Russia Now or Defer
Until Later?

AGGRESSION MUST BE CHECKED

Mr. Matsui Said if Russia Secures
Manchuria She Will Be on the Way
to Securing Korea—Chinese Minister Urges England.

London, March 26.—The Chinese minister, Sir Chih Chen Lo Feng Luh, called at the foreign office and urged the British government to bring pressure to bear in order to prevent Russia from securing the necessary signatures of the Manchurian agreement. The foreign office was still in the dark last night apparently as to whether the agreement will be signed or allowed to lapse when the time expires, March 26. The officials of the Japanese legation were inclined to believe Russia will succeed in getting the necessary signatures.

The situation was still more complicated owing to the fact, ascertained by a representative of the Associated Press, that there are two secret treaties, one of which is to be signed at St. Petersburg, dealing with Russia's military control of Manchuria, and another, to be signed at Pekin, dealing with her civil powers. The Chinese appeals for support failed to produce any direct remonstrances from Great Britain, or apparently from any other power, to St. Petersburg, for Russia persistently adhered to her contention that the secret agreements concern no one except herself and China. On this ground Great Britain's request for copies of the agreement was abruptly made.

It is explained at the foreign office here that it would be a dangerous and useless breach of diplomatic procedure to endeavor to enter upon expostulations with Russia which would only be based upon information supplied by the Chinese.

In other words, the copies of secret treaties and alleged modifications of them recently given to the powers by the Chinese, apparently, were worthless documents and will remain such until Russia herself chooses to communicate the text of the actual treaties and modifications.

In the absence of the Japanese minister in London, Baron Hayashi, Mr. Matsui, first secretary of the Japanese legation, who was interviewed yesterday afternoon by a representative of the Associated Press, made a comprehensive statement of the issues involved. He said:

"Russia's insistence, China's helplessness and the probable victory of Russian diplomacy tomorrow will bring us to the brink of a dangerous situation, in which none of the powers is so deeply concerned as Japan. Even if the secret treaties have been modified, as is alleged, the changes are so trifling as to make the documents thoroughly objectionable to Japan.

"Assuming that China signs the treaties, I suppose Great Britain, Germany and the United States will protest to Russia. But that is about as far as they will go and about as much as they will get. With Japan it is a matter of fighting."

"The question is whether we are to fight Russia now or to fight her later on. She has no right to Manchuria, and if she secures Manchuria she will be on the way to securing Korea."

"Our government, I believe, are seriously considering the crisis. Their eyes are wide open and they will not be driven to precipitate action by the jingos of Japan, who are openly clamoring for immediate war. Yet, if they see that was unavoidable, they will not hesitate to strike."

"Japan has no reason to be afraid as to the result. Many reasons occur to the average Japanese mind in favor of forcing at the present moment a struggle which must come eventually. The chief reason against so doing is the fact that Japan is just beginning a new industrial era which would be temporarily killed should we endeavor by force of arms to prevent Russian encroachments."

"If we follow the lead of other powers and do not threaten hostilities, we realize that we must sit down tamely and see any other nation step in to make agreements similar to those which China seems on the verge of signing with Russia. This would mean the partition of the Chinese empire and the end of the 'open door.' If we opposed it, we naturally think we would have the moral support of the United States, which had been the champion of these principles, and also of Great Britain and Germany."

Boer Force Was Reported Near.

Queenstown, Cape Colony, March 26.—The town guard here was called out, owing to reports that a force of Boers was near the town. Business was shut down in order to allow the employees to man the trenches and forts day and night. The Boers, who were said to be about 20 miles off, were alleged to have crossed the railroad near Drummond.

Murdered While Aiding Starving. Tien Tsin, March 26.—Inquiries show that the Rev. J. Stone House, of the London Missionary society, who was announced in these dispatches as having been killed by brigands 14 miles east of Tien Tsin, was murdered at the ferry of the village of Whangalo, on the Hun Ho river, 10 miles east of Tungan Hsien, while distributing relief to the starving villagers.

FATAL GAS EXPLOSION

One Miner Dead, Others May Die
From Mine Accident, Near Connellsville, Pa.

Connellsville, Pa., March 26.—A fatal mine explosion occurred in the new Klondike region of Fayette county. One man was killed instantly, five will die and 10 are burned and crushed so badly that it is doubtful if they will recover. The body of the dead man is missing. The injured men have been brought to the Cottage State hospital. As a result of the explosion the mine is on fire. The list of the dead and injured has not been completed. The following are a part of the victims:

The Dead.

An unknown Italian.

The Injured.

Robert Nelson, mine foreman; likely to die.

Gibson Gilmore, aged 40, of Dunbar; not expected to recover.

David Ramsey, a driver; not expected to recover.

James Wilson, little hope for his recovery.

James Murphy, a miner.

Michael Soloka, a Slav miner.

Alexander Bullayontis, a Slav miner.

George Yonkora, a Slav miner, of Gates.

Michael Goble, a German miner; may not recover.

The explosion was due to the opening of a pocket of gas by a dynamite blast. Those of the injured men who are able to talk place the responsibility for the accident on the men in charge of the mine. They assert that the fire boss quit last week and that proper inspections had not been made since.

HANNA PRESENT

Schwab, Morgan, Gates and Gary
Also Participants at the Conference.

New York, March 26.—There was a conference of steel interests at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. It was attended by Mr. Morgan, Judge Gary, Charles M. Schwab, John W. Gates and Senator Mark Hanna.

After it was over the participants declined to go into particulars, although one of them said that the size and color of the new stock certificates of the United States Steel corporation were discussed. From other sources it was learned that the personnel of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation were decided upon.

Colonel Isaac L. Ellwood, of Chicago, declared last night that he would not oppose in any way the plans of J. Pierpont Morgan in perfecting the new billion dollar steel trust.

New York, March 26.—The announcement made last week that Messrs. J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. have purchased what is known as the Rockefeller interests in the ships, railways and mines of the northwest was confirmed by Mr. Rockefeller's representative, F. T. Gates, who is president of the Bessemer Steamship company; the Duluth, Mesaba and Northern railway and the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines.

STATEMENT FROM MITCHELL.

Had No Conference With Operators, But Would if Possible.

New York, March 26.—President Mitchell, of the miners' union, sent the following statement to Wilkes-Barre:

"I have had no conference with J. P. Morgan or any other railroad president or coal operator. Contrary to reports, we, the committee, did not come to New York in response to any invitation. So far as I know the miners have not up to this time been offered or granted any concessions.

Of course we all hope to avert the strike and are putting forth our most urgent efforts to that end. We came to New York for the purpose of holding a conference, if possible, and in doing so we are simply carrying out the wishes expressed by a majority of those who attended the late conference at Hazleton."

SINGERLY'S TRANSFER STANDS.

Decided That Late Editor Was Sane at Time Transfer Was Made.

Philadelphia, March 26.—Assistant Attorney General James M. Beck, master in the suit pending in the United States circuit court to set aside the assignment of the Philadelphia Record for the benefit of the creditors of the defunct Chestnut Street National bank, of which William M. Singerly was president, filed his report in the United States court.

Mr. Beck finds that Mr. Singerly was sane at the time he transferred the newspaper property to Assignees George H. Harle, Jr., and Richard Y. Cook, and the transaction was therefore valid. He decrees that the Record shall be disposed of at public sale and settles claims in dispute amounting to over $2,000,000.

Calling the Doctor.

A good story is told of Dr. X., who is the physician in charge of the female wards of one of our best known charitable institutions. One evening about 9 o'clock Mary, a new Irish servant girl, knocked at the door, saying:

"Doctor, the head nurse wants you to come down to supper."

The doctor, swelling in his pride of superiority above the nurses, sent the Irish girl away with a curt message. Half an hour later the head nurse came to his room looking very serious.

"Doctor," she said, "No. 8 is very bad indeed. I think you ought to see her at once."

"Why did you not let me know before?" was the reply.

"Why, doctor," said the nurse, "I sent you word by Mary half an hour ago."

"The fool," said the doctor. "She told me to come down to supper!"

"Why," said the nurse, "I sent you word to come down to eight!"

An inquiry made the whole thing clear. Mary thought it more polite to say "Come down to supper" than to say "Come down to eat." Pearson's Weekly.

A Sensitive Scot.

A sensitive Scot rebukes the London Daily Chronicle for saying that his countrymen pronounce man "mon." "The absurd form 'mon,' he writes, "is the hall mark of Scots' vernacular as written by a southern pen, and its intrusion has often lent additional sadness to comic journalism, even, alas, to the pages of our chief humorous periodical. In the north of England 'mon' certainly occurs; in Scottish speech never. In Scott and Stevenson one may look for it in vain. The broad, soft vocalization of the word in Lothian dialect lies somewhere between 'maun' and 'mann,' but as it cannot be literally symbolized the word should be spelt in dialect passages simply as in English."

It is sometimes easier to step into another man's shoes than it is to walk in them.—Chicago News.

Some Reasons

Why E. Liverpool People Should Follow This Valuable Advice.

Because the proof is in E. Liverpool pool.

You can thus investigate the claims. When investigated they will prove satisfactory.

It demonstrates that theory gives way before facts.

Mrs. William Jones, who lives on Second street, says: "I was troubled off and on for eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys; a dull, aching pain across my loins up under my shoulder blades and rheumatic pains in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes of the weather, and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight. The trouble affected my nervous system, causing a frequent fluttering of the heart and shortness of breath. I generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy, obtained instant relief and a finally a cure."

To the Public.

The fact becomes more and more manifest each year that Liverpool township should have a representative on the board of county commissioners, and the undersigned takes this mean of announcing that he will be a candidate at the next county primary.

I had thought of being a candidate for the position at the late nomination, but upon interviewing the proposed candidate from this city, was assured by him that he was out for the position. I then decided to not oppose him. Now that the field is clear I have no hesitation in announcing to my friends that I will be a candidate for the berth of county commissioner at the Republican primary in 1902.

Hoping that my candidacy will receive favorable consideration at your hands, I am, yours truly,

CONDITIONS AND THEORIES.

New iron mills are starting almost daily; new works are being erected and others projected; new tin plate plants are springing up and old ones running full time. Such are the reports that come from such manufacturing centers as Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Youngstown, as well as from other cities of less importance in the industrial world. In East Liverpool and vicinity the pottery industry has seldom if ever been more flourishing; improvement is the order of the day, and several neighboring towns are rejoicing at the prospect of establishments that will enable them to share to more or less extent the prosperity which seems general in this branch of manufacturing.

Nor is the industrial expansion confined to old lines of business. Demand and inventive genius have created numerous new industries, some of them of a magnitude very imperfectly understood by the general public. Just outside the city limits of Pittsburgh is a striking example of the progress and prosperity possible under the McKinley administration. The Pressed Steel Car company's works at Schoenerville, adjacent to the town of McKee's Rocks, occupies with its plant and the houses of its workmen scores of acres that, perhaps two years ago, were little more than waste land, encumbered with stumps and not even utilized for farming purposes. Land in that locality has risen many hundred per cent in value in the same period; even the woods have been invaded by spreading towns, and, while builders are constantly at work, houses cannot be erected fast enough to supply the demand for them. The company, new and unknown until recently, finds its products in such demand that it cannot begin to fill the orders it receives, and it is never without millions of dollars worth of contracts to be filled months ahead.

How much of the increase and activity in all lines of business would we have witnessed had Bryan been elected in 1896? And how many new works would have been started this year, had he been successful in his campaign last fall? Contrasting existing conditions with Bryan theories, prophesies fulfilled by Republicans with Democratic predictions of evil in the event of Republican success, the wonder is that any American workingman can ally himself with the party opposed to progress.

A TAX ON BACHELORS.

Pennsylvania has a genius in her legislature, and he has drafted a bill to encourage early marriages and to provide for the comfort and support of single ladies of more than marriageable age. His bill, if we understand its purport, would make a bachelor of 40 or over pay $100 for his marriage license if he desired to get one, and would annul his marriage should he go out of Pennsylvania and procure a license and a wife at less cost. The money collected in this way is to be used for the purpose of maintaining "homes for old ladies over 40 years of age who have not had a suitable opportunity or offer of marriage."

It strikes us that there are more fatal defects in this bill than in the average one that receives the attention of the general assembly of Pennsylvania, with all the legislative monstrosities there manufactured. Young people don't need much legislation to induce them to marry if the old folks keep out of the parlor and make no protests if George stays 40 or even 140 minutes after the curfew bell has rung. And a $100 tax is not calculated to drive old bachelors into matrimony. They are timid enough any way, and that burden added to their other woriments would keep most of them forever single. And "old ladies over 40!" Where is there any lady who is going to confess that she is either old or forty? As for offers of marriage, the man is a lunatic if he expects any single lady, whether 16 or 60, to acknowledge that she never had one.

Early marriages are all right if the young people have sense; otherwise they are a bane and not a blessing. But the ideal matches, which never fizzle after they have been lighted, are made in a far better place than the Pennsylvania legislature.

SCOTT'S CHOICE.

Senator Scott, of West Virginia, himself a native of this state, is not quite easy, although an Ohio man has just been inaugurated president and has four years yet to serve. He wants the assurance that a son of the Buckeye state will sit in the executive chair after 1905, and therefore hastens to nominate Senator Hanna for election in 1904. There is just one serious difficulty in the way of carrying out Mr. Scott's wish. Marcus A. Hanna, of Cleveland, has not been consulted about the matter. When he has been he will undoubtedly put a quietus upon it.

The oriental war clouds shift fast and frequently, and appear to be of a rather light form of mist.

These spring days force the question to the front: Where is our baseball team?

PAID DEBTS AND DIED.

Pathetic Fate of a Man Who Had a Hard Struggle for Life.

Steubenville, March 26.—William Mehollin, a farmer of Smithfield township, after struggling all his life to get on his feet and square with the world, died last week just as he had realized a small competence from the sale of coal lands. He had gotten deeply in debt, and his one hope in life was to get out of debt before his death. The sale of the coal rights realized him $7,000, and the very day he received the money he set out to pay all his debts.

The day after his indebtedness had been wiped out he was taken ill with pneumonia and death followed.

Here Early and to Stay.

In the very oldest fossil bearing rocks no insects are found. The very oldest fossil is a kind of polyp, making reefs of limestone when as yet the insects had not appeared, and it "flourished" in Canada.

The first insect known to have existed, a creature of such vast antiquity that it deserves all the respect which the parvenu man can summon and offer to it, was—a cockroach. This, the father of all black beetles, probably walked on the earth in solitary magnificence when not only kitchens, but even kitchen middens, were undreamed of, possibly millions of years before neolithic man had even a back cave to offer, with the remains of last night's supper, for the cockroach of the period to enjoy. His discovery established the fact that in the silurian period there were insects, though, as the only piece of his remains found was a wing, there has been room for dispute as to the exact act species.

Mr. Goss in his preface to the second edition of his book notes says that what is probably a still older insect has been found in the lower silurian in Sweden. This was not a cockroach, but apparently something worse. If the Latin name, Protocimex silurius, be literally translated it means the original silurian bug.—Spectator.

Animals Without Feet.

The hooved animals, like the horse and the stag, have, strictly speaking, no feet, for they walk on their nails, and their feet have become part of their legs. The advantage seems to be a lengthening of the stride, just as a trained athlete learns to run on his toes.

to increase his pace. There is also the further advantage of no soft part to be injured by contact with the ground. Some monkeys have four hands, which must be a great advantage in climbing. The absence of legs as

Spanish Humor.
Some recent jokes from Madrid, giving an idea of contemporaneous Spanish humor:

Writing an Ad.

Did you ever stop to think, you who read the advertisement in the newspapers, just what it means to get up the "ad" every day for a big department store? The man in charge usually has a staff of assistants, who are assigned to certain departments of the store each day. They must familiarize themselves with the stock of these departments, while the manager of the advertising department himself is supposed to keep thoroughly in touch with the entire stock of the store. He writes the general introduction to the advertisement each day and edits the copy turned in to him by his assistants, just as an editor handles the copy of his reporters.

"Just as much care is taken with this matter as though it were so much imperishable literature," said the advertising manager of a big department store.

"You sometimes hear of a famous author spending hours over one paragraph, writing it and rewriting it to get the best and strongest effect. You wouldn't think that would be necessary in writing an advertisement, but it is. My assistants sometimes spend an hour over one sentence. There is more science in writing an advertisement that will bring results than perhaps in any other form of composition."—Philadelphia Record.

Bogged.

While traveling in Cornwall in 1891 Rev. S. Baring-Gould came near being overwhelmed in a bog. He and his companions got lost and at dusk found themselves in a bog called Redmire. Six bullocks had already been lost there that year. Mr. Baring-Gould's adventure is related in his "Book of the West."

"All at once I sank above my waist and was being sucked farther down. I cried to my companion, but in the darkness he could not see me, and had he seen me he could have done nothing for me. The water finally reached my armpits.

"Happily I had a stout bamboo some six feet long, and I placed this athwart the surface and held it with my arms as far expanded as possible. By jerks I succeeded in gradually lifting myself and throwing my body forward till finally I was able to cast myself at full length on the surface. The suction had been so great as to tear my leather gaiters off my legs.

"I lay at full length gasping for nearly a quarter of an hour before I had breath and strength to advance, and then wormed myself along on my breast till I reached dry land. My companion, it turned out, had had a similar experience."

An Ample Kitchen.

What is said to be the largest kitchen in England is that of Bab Castle, the seat of the Duke of Cleveland. It is 30 feet square, having three chimneys, one for the grate, a second for the stoves, and the third for the great caldron. The roof is arched, with a small cupola in the center. It has five windows, from each of which steps descend, but only in one instance to the floor, and a gallery runs round the whole interior of the building. The ancient oven has a diameter of 15 feet.

Vast as this kitchen is, it must have been sometimes taxed by the hospitality of former ages, for in one of the apartments of the great castle 700 knights were upon one occasion entertained at the same time. And the knights of that day were men of brawn and sinew, who would think lightly of demolishing each man of them, five pounds of beef, half a sucking pig, a venison pasty or two, washed down with huge flagons of brown October.—New York Tribune.

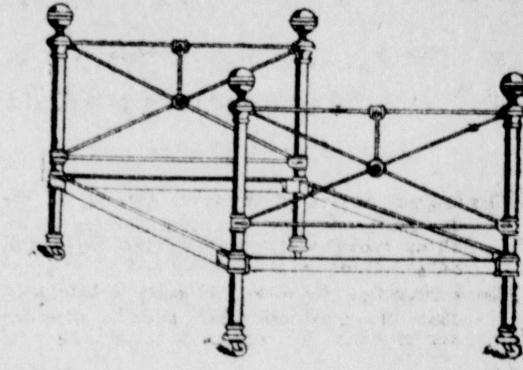

The Topaz.

The word topaz comes from the Greek verb signifying to guess. The jewel was brought from the east and reported to have come from an island, and men guessed at the location of the isle, which produced such beautiful gems.

Not Second Sight.

In happenings that savor of the supernatural there is often less rather than more than is "dreamt of in philosophy."

In the English county of Wiltshire there lived a woman whose deceased husband had been a pig dealer. After his death it was her habit to remark to chance visitors, without looking out the window:

"That's a nice lot of young pigs, those."

"Where?" the person present was sure to ask.

"Comin down the road," was the invariable reply. "They're in a cart, and, what's more, there's a fine fat sow among 'em."

And it would not be long before a cart would appear and in it a litter of pigs and among them the sow which the woman had perceived at such a distance up the road. One day a visitor, who saw in this exhibition an evidence of second sight, exclaimed:

"How do you do it? It is simply wonderful!"

"Tain't no miracle," was the modest reply. "I've just got my ear trained to pigs—that's all."

A Nervy Museum Manager.

Sarah Bernhardt said that one night during a visit to America when she was playing "Jeanne d'Arc," she hurt her knee with a rusty nail. "The wound gave me considerable pain and trouble," she said, "and it was thought that a slight operation might possibly be required. This fact appeared in the daily papers, and a day or two afterward I received a telegram from the manager of a museum in Chicago saying that if it was necessary to amputate my leg might he please have it. He added he would drape it if desired."

"An umbrella is a good deal like a fellow's hair," remarked the observer of events and things. "If you lose it, you seldom get it back again."

The Place to Wash Him.

On one occasion an M. P. of a past generation not noted for his habits of personal tidiness was visiting a seaside place, and one day while out in a boat with a sailing party he was swept overboard, but was happily rescued. When the excitement was over, a young fellow rushed down into the cabin.

"By Jove," he exclaimed, "we've been having such an exciting time on deck!"

"What is it?" asked everybody.

"Mr. Blank was washed overboard."

"I'm glad of it," snapped a fastidious matron.

Everybody was horrified.

"Well, I am," she explained. "Just think of that man being washed on board!"—London Answers.

PREPARED FOR HER

Proprietor of a Carrie Nation Saloon Was Ready to Meet the Smasher.

HAD HIS REVOLVER READY

Declared He would Have Killed Her. She Merely Laughed When He Ordered Her to Leave—Objected to Having His Place Called For Her.

St. Louis, March 26.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, of Kansas, passed through this city. She stopped long enough to visit a liquor establishment on Market street bearing her name.

Mrs. Nation, followed by a crowd, called the proprietor to task for daring to name his establishment after her. The saloon man said he "belonged to the nation, as did his customers," and he meant to retain the name.

Mrs. Nation was compelled to continue her journey without making any change in the nomenclature of the saloon.

Mrs. Nation, defying all orders to leave the saloon, remained as long as she could without missing her train, and as she left she laughed at Sauerberger, the proprietor.

"I didn't mean to smash anything," she said, and waving her hand to the crowd that stood about she started on the return to the depot. After she disappeared Sauerberger pulled from his right coat pocket a loaded revolver.

"If she had ever made a move to smash anything I'd have killed her sure. But I'd give her $25 a day to sit on my ice chest and keep still."

It was while eating a sandwich at the lunch counter before her visit to the saloon that Mrs. Nation said she would not smash if she could only vote. She had just shaken hands with a dozen small boys.

"They are going to take up my work when I am done. They can vote, and the vote is the best hatchet. If I could vote I wouldn't smash any more."

CHINESE RESOURCES.

Might Be Able to Pay Indemnities Within 20 Years.

Pekin, March 26.—The special committee of ministers appointed to consider the question of China's ability to meet the indemnity plans was already well forward with the work of investigating the resources of the empire.

Sir Robert Hart, director general of the imperial maritime customs, has been examined, as also have the managers of the representative Chinese banks, many pawn brokers and other Chinese financiers.

The consular reports for a number of years back have been closely read.

It now appears that from all sources the annual revenue aggregates about $65,000,000 gold, derived from the land tax, the grain tax, the Likin, the customs, the opium tax and miscellaneous imports.

The largest two items are the land tax, which brings in $14,000,000, and the foreign customs, which yields $12,000,000.

In the opinion of all the foreigners who have participated in the examination the land tax could be doubled and even tripled without much hardship, and the salt tax could be raised from $6,000,000 to $20,000,000.

It is believed that the total increase could be made to amount to $150,000,000. If then the imperial expenses could be reduced to $45,000,000, there would be left available for liquidation of the interest on loans and the indemnity fund the sum of $105,000,000.

Making all allowances, it would be possible to pay the indemnity within 20 years.

BOER FORCE ATTACKED.

Gen. Delarey's Force Driven and Some Guns Captured.

London, March 26.—The war office received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener:

Pretoria, March 25.—Babington's force, including Shekleton's column, attacked Delarey, 1,500 strong, southwest of Ventersdorp, and, having defeated him, followed him up rapidly, with the result that the Boer rear guard was driven in and their convoy, including the guns, captured at Vaalbank.

"Our troops displayed great gallantry and dash. They captured two 15-pounder guns, one pompon, six Maxims, 320 rounds of big ammunition, 15,000 rounds of small ammunition, 160 rifles, 53 wagons and 24 carts, besides taking 140 prisoners. Our losses were slight. Many Boers were killed or wounded."

Birmingham, Ala., March 26.—A fearful tornado, traveling in an easterly direction, swept over the southern part of this city. The number of killed was estimated at 25, of whom five are white. The storm struck the city in the extreme southwestern corner and plowed its way eastward, leaving a path 150 feet wide through the entire southern section, extending from Green Springs on the west to Avondale on the east and continued its course until its fury was spent in the mountains beyond Ironton, a small town six miles east of the city.

ROTH WANTED TO HEDGE.

Tried to Have His Marriage Bill Withdrawn.

Harrisburg, March 26.—Among other proceedings in the house last night, Mr. Roth, of Lehigh, arose to a question of personal privilege and created much amusement by explaining that on Friday he was given a bachelor's bill by his friends on the Republican side of the house and that he introduced it as a joke. Some persons have taken the bill seriously, and, therefore, he would ask unanimous consent to withdraw it. Mr. Slater, of Philadelphia, chairman of the law and order committee, to which it was referred, said the committee had a right to act upon it, and objected to permission being given his colleague to withdraw it.

Among other proceedings in the senate last night the most important bills to pass second reading were those relating to the Philadelphia board of revision of taxes.

These bills were amended so as to correct a few typographical errors, and they were then passed without opposition. They may come up for final passage this afternoon.

SUPPORT GUFFEY'S BILL.

Pennsylvania Republican Leaders Decide to Ask Senators to Do So.

Harrisburg, March 26.—At a conference of the Republican leaders, held at the governor's mansion late last night, it was decided to request the Republican senators and members of the house to support the Guffey ballot reform bill, with the understanding, however, that the circle at the head of the party column should be allowed to remain.

It was also decided to ask the Republicans of both houses to support the Woodruff amendment to the constitution, providing for personal registration of voters in the cities and to take up and pass the apportionment bills now on the calendars.

FOR TRIP OF OHIO CONGRESSMAN.

Washington, March 26.—General Grosvenor, of Ohio, practically completed the arrangements for the trip of the Ohio congressional delegation to San Francisco on the occasion of the launching of the battleship Ohio. The only point still in doubt is whether the return trip from Duluth to Cleveland shall be by boat or by rail. It is understood that one, and possibly two, special trains will convey Governor Nash and the other Ohioans to the launching.

REPLY OF ENGLAND

The British Government Desired to Have the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty Stand.

IT WAS AN ACT OF FRIENDSHIP

Such Was Agreement to Modify Treaty—England Would Be Put In Worse Condition Than Other Nations By One Senate Amendment.

Washington, March 26.—The answer of the British government, expressing its inability to accept the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in the form amended by the United States senate, was made public. It is in the form of a communication from Lord Lansdowne, British minister of foreign affairs, to Lord Pauncefote, and asks the latter to read the dispatch to the secretary of state and to leave a copy in his hands. It was in part as follows:

Lord Lansdowne said there was no desire on the part of the British government to change the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. But some of its provisions, he says, had been regarded with disfavor by the government of the United States, and in the president's message of December, 1898, it was urged that the national policy called more imperatively than ever for the control of the projected highway by the government of the United States. Lord Pauncefote made inquiry of the secretary of state as to this attitude of the president. The president wished to have the treaty modified by friendly negotiations. Later the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was framed.

Accepted as Proof of Friendship.

Later the introduction of the Nicaragua canal bill in congress revived attention to the treaty, and it was accepted, Lord Lansdowne saying: "Her majesty's government, after due consideration, determined to accept the convention unconditionally, as a signal proof of their friendly disposition and of their desire not to impede the execution of a project declared to be of national importance to the people of the United States."

Lord Lansdowne then discusses and denies the right of the United States to annul the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

Lord Lansdowne further along considers the senate amendments and points out formidable difficulties.

Lord Lansdowne shows that under article 1 of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty the two parties agreed that neither would occupy or fortify or colonize, or assume or exercise any dominion over any part of Central America, nor attain any of the foregoing objects by alliance with any state or people of Central America. There is no similar agreement in the convention. If, therefore, the treaty were wholly abrogated, both powers would, except in the vicinity of the canal, recover entire freedom of action in Central America. This change, he thinks, would certainly be of advantage to the United States, and might be of substantial importance.

The other two amendments, in the opinion of Lord Lansdowne, present more formidable difficulties. The first of them—the so-called Davis amendment, which reserves to the United States the right of taking any measure which it may find necessary to secure by its own forces the defense of the canal, he says the United States might at any time commit acts clearly inconsistent with the neutral character which it has always been sought to give it, and which would deny the free use of it to the commerce and navies of the world.

He goes on to show that there is no analogy between the tenth article of the Suez canal convention and the Davis amendment, adding:

"The banks of the Suez canal are within the dominions of a territorial sovereign, who was a party to the convention, and whose established interests it was necessary to protect; whereas the Nicaraguan canal will be constructed in territory belonging, not to the United States, but to Central American states, of whose sovereign rights other powers cannot claim to dispose."

Would Discriminate Against England.

Lord Lansdowne states his objections to the amendments which strike out article 3 of the convention, under which the high contracting parties engage, immediately upon the convention being reaffirmed to bring it to the notice of the other powers and to invite their adherence.

"If that adherence were given, the neutrality of the canal would be secured by the whole of the adhering powers; without that adherence it could depend only upon the guarantee of the two contracting powers."

The amendment, Lord Lansdowne says, not only removes all prospect of a wider guarantee, but places Great Britain in a position of marked disadvantage compared with other powers.

"If his majesty's government were to agree to such an amendment, while the United States would have a treaty right to interfere with the canal in case of war, or apprehended war, and while other powers could with a clear conscience disregard any of the restrictions imposed by the convention, Great Britain alone, in spite of her enormous possessions on the American continent, and in spite of her Australian colonies and her interests in the east, would be absolutely precluded from resorting to any such action, or from taking measures to secure her interests in and near the canal."

"His majesty's government, throughout these negotiations, has given evidence of their earnest desire to meet the views of the United States. They would on this occasion have been ready to consider in a friendly spirit any amendments of the convention, not inconsistent with the principles accepted by both governments, which the government of the United States might have desired to propose, and they would sincerely regret a failure to come to an amicable understanding in regard to this important subject."

FEAR OF GOLD EXPORTS

Payment on Account of Steel Syndicate, Somewhat Unsettled Loan Market Monday.

New York, March 26.—Monday professional operators led the outside demand very freely during the first hour, so that there was no important advances after the opening, except where some special influence was at work. When the accumulation of buying orders in commission houses had been worked off this profit taking began to get the best of prices and forced a general decline. The effort of the leaders of the speculation during the rest of the day was to make an imposing show of sharp advances in the stocks of minor railroad companies, concerning which plausible reports of consolidation with larger systems could be devised, and of which the capital issue of the floating supply of stock is sufficiently narrow to make possible effective manipulation by speculators of large resources. There were so many of these gains and they were so impressive in extent as to serve very well the purpose of the bull leaders to cover their profit taking movements elsewhere. But the bear operators gained courage as they detected the extent of the profit taking sales, and they made a general attack on the market late in the day, forcing some rather violent declines in the grangers, Pacifics and southwesterns, making the close a very active one and decidedly weak. There were gains of from 1 to 2 points in a number of standard railroad stocks and specialties in the first hour. Texas and Pacific and Ontario and Western being heavily bought for London account. Early weakness developed in the local traction stocks and in Sugar, but it did not immediately effect the whole market. After the large outside demand had been partly satisfied some sharp advances were caused among the junior Vanderbilt stocks, running in some cases up to over 5 points. The Wheeling and Lake Erie stocks were quite prominent, as were Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, the Express company stocks, General Electric, North American, Amalgamated Copper, Consolidated Gas and a number of minor specialties. The Southern Railway stocks, St. Paul and the Pacifics made a show of strength at one time, and late in the day the Hocking Valley stocks and the Toledo, St. Louis and Western stocks were moved up even after the general market had become distinctly weak. In the late drop Denver and Rio Grande lost 3½, Burlington 3, Wabash preferred 3½. Great Northern preferred 3½, St. Paul over 2 points and a large number of the principal active stocks from 1 to 2 points. The stocks which had been made points of resistance retained part of their gains at the close, although they were materially below the best prices.

Uneasiness was caused by the apparent difficulties ahead of the foreign money markets, incident to the requirements for the coming German and British loans. The upward course of exchange arouses the apprehension that gold may go abroad. The continued drain of the government revenue surplus is also regarded with increasing seriousness, and the speculative contingent does not maintain to the full its expressed confidence that redemption of government bonds will certainly be resorted to to save the stock market from a money pinch. Monday's payment of $25,000,000 on account of the steel syndicate subscription unsettled the loan market to some extent, but there was no notable rise in money rates.

The bond market continued active and reactionary in spots. Wabash debentures broke 3½ from the highest. Total sales, par value, $5,460,000.

United States refunding 2s advanced ½ per cent on the last call.

INSURANCE FOR DRUGGISTS.

Liability For Losses From Mistakes Is Now Provided For.

One of the latest things in the fidelity and casualty line is to insure druggists against what is called the wrong prescription man, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. For $15 or $25 a year several companies guarantee druggists against damages arising from mistakes in compounding drugs.

The idea of insuring druggists against loss from their own mistakes originated in the belief of a number of leading pharmacists that they were the victims of a gang of rogues who made a practice of pretending that wrong medicines had been given to some member of their families, sometimes with serious results. The gang was partly broken up by the fidelity company which first assumed the responsibility of protecting druggists at $5 a year each. An officer of this company says that there are fully 1,000 mistakes a year in the compounding of drugs.

"While there are so many genuine mistakes," he continued, "there are many alleged errors in mixing medicines, and some of the complaints are invented for the sole purpose of extorting money from the retail druggists. Our company guarantees to protect druggists against themselves, but our main desire is to prevent fraud on the part of those who want to blackmail one of our clients for something he has not done.

"It is a serious matter to make a mistake in mixing drugs, but it is frequently even more serious to the druggist to have it noised about that such a mistake was made. I have known chemists to be forced out of business by the publicity given to the fact that they made a blunder. Dishonest persons have recognized the fear that druggists have of an exposure of this kind and have taken advantage of the knowledge.

"Since we undertook to prevent them a number of druggists have confessed to paying big sums to persons who said mistakes were made. I have the name of half a dozen so called doctors who have aided the gang that was engaged in the business of bleeding chemists.

"Still there is nothing really remarkable in this protection of druggists. For instance, we have a special insurance for saloon keepers guaranteeing them against financial loss through being locked up for violation of the excise law."

HORSE CONFINED FOR YEARS

Animal Does Not Know How to Act When Released.

A horse with hoofs abnormally long that has not been out of its stall but once in the last eight years is one of the curiosities in Clinton, Ia. It is the property of William Barenfuss, an eccentric character. It is said Barenfuss is keeping the animal confined in the stall in order to let its hoofs grow, so he can dispose of the horse to some show manager. It is also said Barenfuss is afraid of the horse and does not dare to take it out of the barn.

The horse is a handsome black stallion and, were it accustomed to the harness, would bring a good price. In its present condition Barenfuss has been offered $200 for the animal, but he turns a deaf ear to all offers.

Eight years ago, when the horse was a year old, it was placed in its present quarters, and but once in all these years has the animal been out of its stall. This was five years ago, when a fire threatened to destroy the barn. Some of the neighbors knocked the door off its hinges and cut the halter, releasing the animal, which was driven out of the barn after considerable difficulty.

When outside, the horse staggered and reeled like an intoxicated person. It had little use of its legs. All objects seemed strange to it, and the light had a blinding effect on the horse's eyes. It had no regard for objects and in trying to enter the barn did not realize that it must go through a door, but attempted to walk through the boards.

Mosquitos, Forest and Fever.

If a frost is the effective agent against the continuance of yellow fever, how has it happened that the fever has ceased in its time at Key West, St. Kitts, Vera Cruz and elsewhere to the south of us, where there is never a frost? As for the mosquito going out of business with the appearance of the frost, that is surely a mistake.

The winter following the last appearance of fever here was so mild that the mosquitoes remained in commission until March. The fever, however, disappeared the last week in December.—Mobile Register.

From an Author's Notebook.

The following is an extract from the diary of an impecunious author: "Rose at 5 and had a sonnet and a glass of cold water for breakfast. I retired early in the evening without supper, as I feared the neighbors would be annoyed by the rattling of the knives and forks."—Atlanta Constitution.

His Wife Insisted

And he thought he'd humor her, no doubt. The result shows that a man rarely loses by following his wife's advice. Those who suffer from obstinate cough, bronchitis, weak lungs and ailments in general which tend to consumption, will find speedy relief and perfect cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures ninety-eight per cent of those who give it a fair and faithful trial. It purifies the blood, heals the lungs and builds up the body with firm flesh instead of flabby fat. The "Discovery" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotics.

"Only for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, I think, would I be in my grave to-day," writes Mr. Moses Miles, of Hilliard, Uinta Co., Wyoming. "I had asthma so bad I could not sleep at night and was compelled to give up work. It affected my lungs so that I coughed all the time, both day and night. My friends all thought I had consumption. My wife had taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it had helped her so much she insisted on my trying his 'Golden Medical Discovery'—which I did. I have taken four bottles and am now a well man, weighing 185 pounds, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I would like you to print this testimony as it may help some other poor sufferer."

A GOOD SCHEME.

Massillon Committee Don't Propose to Grant a Franchise Unless Street Railway is Built.

It is understood that the committee to which was referred the petition for a franchise for the Canton-Massillon Electric Railway company, will recommend granting a franchise for three months, its extension to be contingent upon the work accomplished in that period by the company. The members of the committee say that such action is justifiable, considering the broken promises of the past.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

EXPERIENCES OF CANDIDATES IN THE RECENT CAMPAIGN.

A Variety of Odd And Interesting Stories Picked Up By Reporters.

Many amusing stories are told in regard to the county primary election and campaign which has just closed.

He was standing in front of the first precinct of the Fourth ward and was slightly under the influence of liquor, when a ward healer approached him and asked him if he had voted. He replied that he had not and did not propose to vote, as he could not see why he didn't get some money out of the candidates, as he was willing to work for anybody, provided he was paid for it. The ward healer gave him a drink and the kicker voted at once.

In the county campaign which has just closed two candidates met at a hotel in a small town in the county. It did not take them long to discover there were no beds to be secured in the house, and one candidate took off his shoes and seated himself in an arm chair in front of the old fashioned stove, while the other made his bed on a table. During the night the man on the table awakened and heard the candidate who had the chair mutter in his sleep: "Thieves, they would rob a man."

Sunday evening Donald Monday, who is employed as a driver by a grocery store on Market street, entered the restaurant of T. F. Manley on Sixth street having a sign reading: "T. F. Manley, Sixth street, East Liverpool, O." When asked in regard to the sign he said he had got lost in Wellsville, and running across a friend he had pinned the sign on him and put him on a car bound for this city. He is now being asked by his friends if he ever was in the city of Wellsville before, and in what part he got lost.

A theory is now advanced by a scientist, it is said, that there are no more reliable weather prophets than telegraph wires. This novel discovery was made by him in the following manner: As he was waiting for a train at a country station he heard the shrill sound, which was made by the wind as it passed through a network of nearby wires. At once the doctor remembered that he had frequently heard a similar sound either immediately before or after a storm or a heavy fall of rain or snow and it naturally occurred to him to try and ascertain whether there was any connection between the sound and such changes in the weather.

As a heavy shower of rain fell within 48 hours after he had heard the sound at the railroad station, he concluded that there was such a connection, and he then determined to investigate the matter thoroughly. As a result he now maintains, first, that any unusual disturbance in the telegraph wires is an infallible indicator of bad weather, and, second, that the nature of the changes in the atmosphere may be learned from the sound which the wind makes when passing through the wires.

Thus a double sound, he says, which is of considerable or medium strength, indicates that there will be slight showers of rain with moderate winds within from 30 to 48 hours, and, on the other hand, a sharp, shrill sound is the sure token of a heavy storm, which will be accompanied by much rain or snow.

Thomas J. Hern, of Allegheny; Charles D. The company proposes to drill wells on the Columbus Hobbs leases near New Cumberland.

A LEPER GOVERNMENT.

Victims on Molokai to Have Their Own Municipality.

As a result of an official trip to the leper settlement on Molokai island, native members of the Honolulu legislature announce their intention of giving local self government to the lepers. They will receive the authority to conduct the settlement as they see fit.

They propose that it be organized on the plan of a municipality. The lepers will elect a board of aldermen, a mayor, a justice of the peace, police officers and all other officials necessary to running a miniature city.

The management of the lepers has been in the hands of an agent of the board of health, who had complete supervision of the leper settlement, which is on a peninsula about six miles long and three miles wide, on the northern coast of Molokai island. Generally the lepers have been satisfied with their life, but numerous complaints were made recently to the legislative committees about the scarcity of food and the details of management.

The lepers were assured that by next July they will have entire management themselves and can attend to every detail. Taro root, from which is manufactured poi, the most essential food for the lepers, will be raised in quantity by the lepers after self government is inaugurated. Other supplies which cannot be raised on the island will be sent over by the board of health, which will still maintain practically an executive supervision over the lepers.

Lepers will take charge of these goods and will arrange for their disposition to members of the settlement. There is scarcely a resident in the settlement who is not terribly disfigured with the disease.

One of the most prominent members of the settlement, who has lived there 22 years, said he did not believe self government could be put into execution, for there were not enough well men to assume the reins of government. Those who were well enough now were apt to become ill at any time. There are now about 900 lepers of both sexes in the settlement. The movement meets with almost unanimous approval from them.

VEGETABLES AND TYPHOID.

Vegetable Chemist Says Germs Lurk In Raw Garden Truck.

Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, has for the last few years been making a thorough study of the close connection between typhoid and other germ diseases and the consumption of raw vegetables and has come to the conclusion that to their use when they are grown near large cities may often be traced the prevalence of these diseases at certain seasons. His study of the matter has not only extended over many years, but to many foreign cities, chief among them Paris and Berlin. In speaking of the matter he said:

"I quite agree with Professor Gauldi, chief of the bureau of hygiene of Rome, and other eminent students of the subject, who trace typhoid fever more directly to the consumption of raw vegetables than to any other source. Of course the use of polluted water as well as a carelessly guarded milk supply are both dangerous factors, but do not account completely for the prevalence of the disease in localities where these supplies are both closely watched and the sanitary conditions are beyond reproach."

"The cause of the danger in uncooked vegetables lies in the fact of truck gardeners near large cities depending often upon sewer waste, household refuse, street sweepings and other such matter as fertilizers for their fields. This is especially the case about Paris. Such a use of waste matter for this purpose, is particularly dangerous if contaminated with pathogenic germs, and this waste matter should in such cases, if used at all, be under the supervision of the board of health, and should be sterilized either by subjection to a high temperature or by the use of oil of vitriol in sufficient quantities to be germicidal."

$500 For a Paul Revere Bell.

Anybody with $500 who wants a big church bell that has rung out for over a century in Boston and which was cast by Paul Revere can have it by paying the money to the trustees of the First Methodist Episcopal church of that city. The bell is now stored in a leather warehouse on South street awaiting a buyer. It has a history, for it used to summon the people of the old north end to worship when it was the "court part" of the town. It was in the tower of the old First church and bears this inscription: "The First church, Cast in Boston in 1792 by Paul Revere." When a second and later a third First church were built on Hanover street, the bell took its place successively in the towers. At the time the First church moved to Berkeley and Marlboro streets the bell went with it. In 1854 the church on Marlboro street was torn down because of the widening of the street, and since then the bell has been in the loft.
